Brilliant Viennese Sculptor Pays Visit Here, Describes Modeling Busts of Britain's Kings

Felix Weihs, great Viennese sculptor, a visitor here yesterday, shows Miss Julia Block, Atlanta debutante and student at High Museum, his portfolio of busts which includes the heads of three Kings of England.

Felix Weihs Carved Image of Princess Life Size in Silver.

By HAROLD MARTIN.
Felix Weihs, brilliant young Viennese sculptor who in his brief 31 years has modeled the busts of three of England's kings, paused in Atlanta yesterday en route to Florida.

While here he plans to get in touch with T. K. Glenn, whom he has met, and yesterday afternoon was guest at the Driving Club of Mrs. E. Bates Block.

A tiny, curly-haired little man whose blue eyes look through you, he talked with heavily accented facility of the great and the near great whose facial contours he has caught in stone and bronze.

King George V, he said, talked as he sat, chatting of sculpture, music and painting. King Edward, whom he had done before as Prince of Wales, talked of hunting with a camera. King George VI, whose great coronation bust Weihs made, didn't have much to say, though he smiled often.

Lloyd George, of all the great men he has done, was the most

U. S. PEACE AIMS SEEK DEATH BLOW TO DICTATORSHIP

Russia Drives Deeper Into Finland; Britain Arrays Her Forces in Northern France.

By The Associated Press.
The United States has broadened its two-way peace initiative to include a long-range, world-wide program for a post-war end to economic self-sufficiency, regimentation and totalitarianism.

This vast, forward-looking program was disclosed by Secretary of State Cordell Hull yesterday even as Russia's Red army drove deeper into Finland and Britain arrayed her forces in northern France to meet any German offensive which might duplicate the 1914 invasion of Belgium.

Stresses Need.
Hull, stressing the need for organizing nations along the lines of liberal economy in advance of the end of Europe's war, said his previous statement on the economic order and disarmament that should follow the war had been sent to American representatives abroad with instructions to seek the support of all governments.

He asserted that if the forces of peace and general stability, especially economic, were not organized preparatory to the transition and reconstruction period, the forces of autarchy, regimentation and economic totalitarianism probably would follow the same pattern they did after the World War.

Hull's ideas were understood to be threefold—a liberal system of trade, over tariffs with barter and import quota arrangements eliminated, and the abandonment of "trick" currencies such as one currency for internal circulation and another for external circulation.

Welles in Switzerland.
The disclosure of the Washington-initiated proposition came while Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles, President Roosevelt's fact-finding emissary, arrived in Switzerland on his way to Berlin.

Meanwhile, in Bucharest, authoritative quarters saw Rumania faced with a choice between accepting a German guarantee of her borders in return for a virtual Nazi monopoly of Rumanian trade, and continued independent action entailing practically complete mobilization of her civil and military resources.

The hard-pressed Finns were pushed back during the day in the arctic near Petsamo and were still under terrific punishment along the broken Mannerheim Line.

New Air Liner Fleet To Handle Growing Plane Traffic Here
A completely new fleet of giant air liners, capable of carrying 40 per cent more passengers than at present, will be inaugurated into the Delta Air Line service between Atlanta and Fort Worth March 15 to care for increased passenger and cargo traffic out of Atlanta.

"Installation of the larger ships was necessitated by a 26 per cent increase of air business in Atlanta alone and an even greater increase in other cities along the route," Oscar Bergstrom, district traffic manager for Delta, said. "Atlanta is and always has been the big business point on our line."

"More than 100,000 passengers were carried in and out of Atlanta in 1939 by the two lines operating here."

Bergstrom cited the increase in cargo business out of Atlanta as another reason for installing the

Know It's Leap Year Day, and Are Prepared

It's your turn to propose, girls. This is leap year, as Miss Grace Cannington (left), of the state law department, proves by pointing to February 29 on the calendar. Miss Geneva Howard (right), of the Board of Penal Correction, gets out her lipstick and gives a few tips on HOW to propose.

Girls at Capitol Shyly Reveal They All Know Leap Year Lines

Modest Misses Deny Any Intention of Using Them, But Tell What a Woman Could Say If She Did Decide To Make Proposal.

By LUKE GREENE.
If you've never heard of a poetic Leap Year proposal, then Mrs. W. H. Higginbotham, of the State Department of Entomology, gives you this ditty, with apologies to Edmund Vance Cooke:

"It's LEAP YEAR DAY today
Don't you know?
I just can't let you get away
Don't you know?"

So say you'll be MINE always
Don't you know?
Really I'm in a daze
Don't you know!"

She dashed it out yesterday in response to the question, "How would you propose to a man on Leap Year Day?" which the calendar says is today.

Several other pretty capitol employees got out their rouge and lipstick, smiled their very best smiles, and gave their opinions on the subject.

Some of them were a little timid about expressing their ideas on the subject, contending it is ever so much more romantic when the opposite sex does the proposing.

Nevertheless, if they could imagine themselves in a position where they would have to propose, here are the approaches they would use:

Miss Melba Woodward, of the penal corrections: "Didn't some one say, 'Flee with me to my fleet in the woods?' Well, anyway, I would use something like that."

Why Stall?
Mrs. Judy Northrop, of the tag department: "Why stall around? I'd say, 'Let's I and you leap—this is the year.'"

Miss Sara Thompson, of the revenue department: "The first thing I would do would be to ask him for a date, find out what he was doing tomorrow night."

Miss Maud Saunders, of the revenue department: "I would tell him that when I made up my mind there is no stopping me, and that he would save time by going ahead and marrying me."

Miss Grace Jackson, information desk in the new state office building: "I would tell him that this is the only year out of four that I have to pop the question, and he might as well stop and listen."

Miss Sara Woodward, of the Department of Welfare: "I would say, 'It's leap now or never.'"

Miss Loyce York, information desk: "To tell you the truth, if I couldn't get a husband without proposing to him I wouldn't have one."

Miss Eris Medders, of the Department of Welfare: "It's all very simple. Just say, 'Come on, toots, let's get hitched.'"

Miss Nancy Freeman, of the Labor Department: "I would start out by asking him to marry me. I'd just give him two or three cute

MEMBERS REFUSE TO GO ON RECORD, FEARING ELECTION

Aid Limited to Powder Puffs, Solon Charges; Attacks Hitler, Stalin; Senate To Speed Bill.

By RICHARD L. TURNER.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28. (AP)—The house voted to help Finland to the extent of a $20,000,000 loan for non-military purchases in the United States today but shied away, emphatically, from taking a record vote on the question.

Although overwhelmingly in favor of helping the Finns, many members feared that European events might take such a turn that a vote for the loan could bring them election time difficulties. So by a general but tacit agreement, passage came off a rising ballot. It showed 168 for the bill and 51 against, the total a bare quorum of the house.

Aid for China, Too.

The measure would add $100,000,000 to the lending funds of the Export-Import bank, with the understanding that $20,000,000 of that amount would go to Finland, and a like sum to China. At no point in the measure is Finland directly mentioned.

Previously passed by the senate, the bill now goes back to that branch for action on house amendments forbidding Export-Import Bank loans to countries in default on their war debts, and permitting the purchase of commercial aircraft, as distinguished from military planes. Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, the Democratic leader, announced that he would try to obtain senate approval for the changes tomorrow, sending the measure to the White House almost immediately.

(The tempo for debate was set by Representative John D. Dingell, Democrat, Michigan, who shouted that Finland needs things with which to protect herself, according to the United Press.)

Powder Puff Loan.

"We restrict the loan to powder puffs and scanty pants and cream puffs and we know the Finns need shrapnel, buckshot, barb wire and all the fiercest implements of hell because they are fighting to stop anti-Christ and the hosts of hell led by beezlebub," he cried.

("To hell with Stalin and to hell with Hitler!" he exclaimed.)

A peculiar situation has surrounded the bill from the start of its legislative career. It has had general approval, but many of its supporters have been more than a little skittish as to the future consequences of casting their votes for it.

(Representative Clyde Williams, Democrat, Missouri, acting chairman of the house banking and currency committee, said Mr. Roosevelt wanted the arms restriction kept in the bill, while Eaton shouted that quibbling over the nature of Finland's purchases was "the worst example of political film-flaming and skullduggery" he had seen since coming to Washington.)

OLD AGE PENSIONS TALMADGE 'PLANK'

Ex-Governor, Expected To Run, Says State Could Pay Old Folks.

Former Governor Talmadge, who is expected to be a candidate for Governor again this year, and who vetoed the old age pension constitutional amendment in 1935, yesterday said the pension plank will be put into his 1940 platform if he has a platform.

Talmadge said "an honest man in the Governor's chair, with the present revenue coming in, would pay the old age pensions of Georgia and this should be done."

The former Governor made the declaration in his periodical, the Statesman, in an article over his signature, in which he also said the school teachers could be paid in full out of the present state income.

Braswell Deen, state director of public welfare, said it would require $5,250,000 of state funds each year to pay pensions to all of those who have applied. Deen said that his department is obtaining only $2,000,000 a year for pensions. By diverting highway and other funds, Governor Rivers is providing approximately $14,000,000 during the current fiscal year for the school program.

"I vetoed the old age pension law of Georgia when it provided a per capita tax," Talmadge said, "since then they have passed a different type of old age pension law in Georgia. It has been approved by vote of the people. It is the law of the state and nation."

Talmadge charged that "there is enough money being paid in the form of taxes to pay this old age pension to the old people, but too much is being paid to young people to sit around office, for soft drinks, cigars, and even cigarettes."

HOWELL URGES PAY FOR ALL AT SAME TIME

At Athens last night, Hugh Howell, announced gubernatorial candidate, declared that all state employees, teachers, college professors, and other workers should be paid at the same time and in the same manner.

"It is not news to go over the wires of the Associated Press when the Governor and other state officials get paid," Howell said. "Neither should it be news when the teachers get their little pittance. And when the people decide to pay them all at the same time, then, and only then will Georgia have a sound educational system."

Howell spoke before the Phi Kappa literary society.

The coronation bust of King George VI of England, made by the sculptor, Felix Weihs, who is a visitor in Atlanta, is shown beside a picture of the monarch.

HIGH COURT RULES LOW RATE VOTED ON WATER EXCESS

Record Alleges Man Borrowed $250, But Actually Got Only $194.

Usurious interest and the imposition of excessive fees on small loans was declared illegal and uncollectible in a decision handed down yesterday by the Georgia court of appeals in the case of the Peoples Bank, of Atlanta, against Henry L. Mayo.

The record alleged that Mayo borrowed $250 from the bank, but received only $194.25. It was charged that $32.50 was deducted as interest on the basis of 8 per cent per annum for 20 months; $5 as an investigating fee, $11.50 for expenses in making the loan; $5 for insurance, and 75 cents for recording fee.

The Fulton civil court previously had rendered a judgment for $175 in favor of the bank, but the appellate division of the same court reduced the judgment to $115.95. The court of appeals upheld the latter decision.

Judge Hugh J. McIntyre, who wrote the opinion, declared that "when a loan is made and secured by personal property, the maturity of such loan shall not exceed 12 months."

Payment on the Mayo loan, the court said, matured at intervals over a period of 20 months. This, the justices decided, constituted a usurious transaction.

Judge McIntyre pointed out that there are exceptions to the rule that 8 per cent per annum is the maximum legal rate of interest, and cited the small loan act of 1920, but held that the case under consideration did not come under the exceptions.

LOW RATE VOTED ON WATER EXCESS

Council Group Refuses To Drop All Charges for January Leakage.

City council's water committee yesterday voted against writing off all excess charges on January water bills, but agreed to allow property owners one-half the excess if the bill totals do not exceed $15, and two-thirds of the excess for all bills over that figure.

Three committee members voted against a resolution which would have struck off all excess charges, while two cast ballots for it.

Mayor Hartsfield and Councilmen Charles L. Chosewood and Howard Haire were recorded against the resolution, while Mayor Pro Tem. Frank H. Reynolds and Councilman J. Frank Beck voted for it.

The mayor, who cast the deciding ballot, warned that if a precedent is established by giving free excess water during cold weather, users will open their hydrants to prevent pipes from freezing, and the city will be at the mercy of fire because of reduced water pressure.

Umbrella Girl Does 'Chamberlain Dance'

MUSTANG, Okla., Feb. 28.—(AP)—One of Farmer J. G. Brindley's Rambouillet ewes gave birth to quintuplets—as rare among sheep as among humans.
“Single and double births are usual,” he said. “Triplets are rare, and I never heard of quads. But quintuplets—I still can't believe it.” Four of the lambs survived.

Lecturer on China Held on Charges of Stealing Pocketbook.

Milton Beckwith, 54-year-old lecturer on China and the Far East, was charged with simple larceny in Fulton criminal court yesterday. He is scheduled to face trial Monday.
The accusation against Beckwith was taken out by City Detective H. R. McCurley and charges him with stealing a pocketbook containing $2 from F. H. Smith, of Marietta, on February 18.
Although arrested February 18 no formal charge was placed against him until this morning. He was held at the city jail until last Friday when he was transferred to Fulton Tower and bond fixed at $200. He has been unable to make the bond.

WPA Reveals New Projects, Frees Two Million for Roads

Jobs for Hundreds of Needy Unemployed Georgians Are Established.

Jobs for hundreds of needy unemployed Georgians were set yesterday as the WPA announced $959,717 in new projects and released $2,062,061 in three counties as a part of the $20,000,000 state-wide road improvement program.
Though Bibb county is the largest participant in the new projects and the road improvement program, Robert L. MacDougall, state WPA administrator, announced that $15,527 in federal funds is available to match $10,177 in state military department money for a $25,704 supplementary project at the national guard headquarters in Atlanta. This supplementary project is to build a shed to house howitzers and gun equipment.
Other counties participating in the $2,062,061 program beside Bibb are Chatham, where $358,228 in federal funds and $139,311 in state funds will be spent, and Hall county, where $249,029 in federal funds and $96,843 in state funds will be expended.

In Bibb county, the WPA is putting up $877,427 while the State Highway Department is supplying $341,221 for road improvements. The $617,316 street improvement program in Macon has the city furnishing $204,606 and the WPA spending $412,710.
The new projects announced yesterday also include:
A $203,022 project for improvement of roads in the Chattahoochee national forest in Habersham, Rabun and Towns counties, with WPA, the United States department of agriculture, and the Chattahoochee National Forest sharing expenses.

BLACKFORD TO HEAD WELFARE ADVISORS

Physician Named Chairman of Medical Group Aiding City's Needy.

Dr. L. Minor Blackford was elected chairman of the medical advisory committee of the Family Welfare Society at the group's annual meeting yesterday. Dr. Joseph C. Massee was elected vice chairman.
The objectives of the committee, as reviewed by Dr. W. L. Funkhouser, retiring chairman, are twofold: First, to advise the case workers of the Family Society in helping families whose difficulties are the outgrowth of both social and medical problems, and second, to aid in developing a closer, more co-operative relationship between doctors and social workers in the interest of better service to families who need help from both groups.
The committee, composed of the following doctors, has been active for four years:
Dr. William Willis Anderson, Dr. Taylor Burgess, Dr. Edgar Bolling, Dr. M. K. Bailey, Dr. Minor Blackford, Dr. Amey Chappell, Dr. W. L. Funkhouser, Dr. William K. Kiser Jr., Dr. James P. Haner, Dr. Walter Holmes, Dr. George F. Klugh Jr., Dr. Russell H. Oppenheimer, Dr. William A. Smith, Dr. C. W. Strickland Jr., Dr. John R. Walker, Dr. Richard B. Wilson, Dr. J. D. CANDLER DESCRIBES DEKALB OPERATION

Calls County Manager Type of Government Most Efficient.

Scott Candler, DeKalb county commissioner, told the Atlanta League of Women Voters yesterday that he believed in the county manager form of government as the most efficient and the most economical type.
“It places the responsibility upon one man and he has to accept it,” Mr. Candler pointed out, “whereas other forms of government divide responsibility and make it impossible to fix.”
As a practical demonstration of the way a county manager plan of government operates efficiently he cited the fact that in the nine years in which DeKalb county has had a commissioner who is, in effect, a county manager, the county has never exceeded its budget.
And in 18 years, Decatur, with a city manager and a five-man advisory commission, has never exceeded its budget, Mr. Candler pointed out.
DeKalb, he says, cannot afford the type of government that Fulton maintains because it doesn't have the money.
“Our schools,” for instance, have to teach our children as much in 11 years as yours teach them in 12. It seems to work pretty well, too, for six Phi Beta Kappas at Emory last year were Decatur High school graduates.”

CAPTOR OF DRIVER SOUGHT BY POLICE

Officers Find T. N. Satterfield Bound to Bankhead Bridge, Robbed.

Police yesterday were searching for a white man who, according to T. N. Satterfield, 35-year-old taxicab driver of 315 Mayson avenue, shackled him to the Bankhead bridge near Inman Yards and robbed him of $10, a watch, and a ring.
Satterfield said he picked up the fare at the Union Bus station shortly before midnight Tuesday, and drove to the Inman Yards where the man told him he would “have to get some money from a locker.”
While walking to the locker room, Satterfield said, the man pulled a gun and ordered him to walk to the bridge. There he bound the driver with a piece of wire and fled with the valuables.
The driver was discovered about 7 o'clock yesterday morning by city police. The abandoned taxicab was found nearby. Satterfield said his assailant was about 40 years old, nicely dressed, and “acted sort of doped.”

MEN FREED ON BAIL AFTER LIQUOR RAID

Charged With Distilling Without License.

Leo Sheriff, of Palmetto, and William Martin, of Gainesville, arrested Tuesday night, according to county police, in a raid on a small still near Palmetto, yesterday, were released under $500 bond each. They were charged with possessing distilling equipment and manufacturing liquor without a license.
County Policemen Hugh Perryman, Fred Wray, and W. C. Roberts staged the raid. The still had just been fired up for a run, the officers reported. More than 200 gallons of mash was destroyed.

REWARD IS DOUBLED FOR 'BUG-PLAY' TIPS

Boykin Raises Offer for Evidence; Early Trials Scheduled.

Declaring it is the players who make the organized racket possible, Solicitor General John A. Boykin yesterday authorized the doubling of the $5 reward he had offered previously for information leading to the arrest of “bug” players.
Boykin said he would pay $10 for each verified list of 15 players. Other reward offers include $10 for information on writers and pickup men, and $50 for information on checking stations or headquarters.
Meanwhile Bond Almond, solicitor of the criminal court of Fulton county, was preparing for an early trial of 36 lottery indictments which were transferred to his jurisdiction Tuesday by the solicitor general.

HOWARD P. CONWAY EX-ATLANTAN, DIES

Member of Prominent Family Succumbs at Providence, R. I.

Howard P. Conway, 45, member of a family long prominent in Atlanta business and social life and a resident here for many years, died yesterday at a hospital in Providence, R. I., where he had been living since 1935.

A native of Scottsboro, Ala., Mr. Conway was a son of J. W. Conway, now of Providence, but spent most of his early life in this city. He attended Belmont College in North Carolina, and later was a student at Georgia Tech, where he was a member of the Sigma Chi fraternity.

Served Overseas.
Shortly after the outbreak of the World War he joined one of the first officers' training camps at Fort McPherson and later saw active duty overseas as a first lieutenant in the infantry.

Returning to Atlanta after the armistice, he became connected with the Grinnell Company and served for many years as assistant to his father who formerly was southern manager.

Succeeded Father.
After his father's retirement he succeeded to his position and moved to Charlotte. He was transferred to Providence about five years ago as vice president and general sales manager. Prior to his transfer he was a member of the Piedmont Driving Club and the Capital City Club and took an active part in civic affairs.

In addition to his father he is survived by his wife; a son, Howard P. Conway Jr., a student at Williams College, and an uncle, Charles B. Payner.

Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

After-Death Plan For Heirs Fails— Estate Folds Up

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 28.—(P) An 83-year-old attorney's plan to conduct, through his will, a strange after-death experiment in what he regarded as the proper upbringing of his grandchildren has collapsed, less than three years after his death.

Theophilus B. Stork, who wrote that he had "a horror" of unrestricted gifts of money to young persons, schemed to match the earnings of his heirs, dollar for dollar, to the income of his estate.

Most of the $450,000 estate that he thought he was bequeathing did not belong to him.

W. Eugene Harrington, president of the One Government League, yesterday congratulated the grand jury on its appointment of a commission to study local government reforms and praised the personnel of the commission.

In a letter to Foreman Aubrey Milam, he wrote: "We are pleased that you gentlemen realize the need for economy and efficiency in city and county and we are grateful that you have set up a commission. We congratulate you upon the personnel of the commission. We are confident that these leaders among our citizens will apply to this new task the same sincere, intelligent effort by which they have already accomplished so much for the good of all."

JOHN W. HAMMOND TO BE BURIED TODAY

Senate President Spivey
Praises Clerk for His Loyalty, Efficiency.

Funeral services for John W. Hammond, who as clerk of the Georgia senate had called that body into session for each meeting since 1933, will be held at 4 o'clock this afternoon in the Awtry & Lowndes chapel with the Rev. Luther Bridges officiating. Interment will be in West View cemetery.

Mr. Hammond died of a heart attack Tuesday afternoon in his 62nd year after a four-day illness of influenza.

Long active in political affairs of the state and a well-known journalist, Mr. Hammond had legions of friends who yesterday were mourning his loss.

Praised by Rivers.
Governor Rivers issued a proclamation praising Mr. Hammond's record as senate clerk and as a newspaperman and ordered all state offices closed at 3 o'clock this afternoon so state employees may attend the funeral.

Senate President John B. Spivey praised Mr. Hammond as "a man who had the highest concept of loyalty, an official who consistently practiced quiet efficiency, and an individual whose personality marked him as a sincere friend and gentleman."

Expressing a sense of keen loss at the passing of the man who worked with him in the upper house, Spivey spoke of "the great help he was to me in the efficient, dispatch and consideration with which he handled legislative business. I never had to ask him to do anything twice. He was one of the most faithful, hard-working officials the senate ever had. He would work far into the night uncomplaining, and when he turned out work it was correct and complete."

Spivey named the following men to serve as an honorary escort at the funeral: Governor Rivers, Senators Spivey, Dixon Smith, Everett Millican, Adie Durden, Walter Sanders, G. T. Cochran, Ernest Palmon, Roy Thrasher, Mose Benson, Don Howe Jr., M. L. Dunn Jr. and Harvey Brannen.

Pallbearers will be Henry Nevin, Hughes Skelton, Hamp McWhorter Jr., F. G. Bryan, James H. Patterson, Carter Peterson, Lamont Smith, Roy Chalkley and Clyde Puett.

An honorary escort will be composed of Judge Render Terrell, of Greenville; Secretary of State John B. Wilson; Dr. Joe P. Bowdoin, of the Department of Public Health; State Treasurer George B. Hamilton; Attorney General Ellis Arnall; Auditor Zach Arnold; B. E. Thrasher; Chancellor S. V. Sanford, of the University System; Chairman Clem Rainey, of the state parole board; Publisher W. T. Anderson, of Macon, and Dr. Sam Wilson.

Cheery Georgia Grist Miller Needs No Wage-Hour Law, Justice Holds

A justice of the Georgia court of appeals took occasion yesterday to reminisce on the days of the "barefoot boy" and the old corn mill in giving the court's decision that the wage and hour law should not apply to grist mills.

The decision grew out of the suit of Lonnie Anderson, who sought to recover $220.90 for back time, overtime and penalties, as provided by the Fair Labor Standards Act of 1938, from J. T. Meacham, operator of a grist mill south of Augusta.

Said Justice John B. Guerry: "The grinding of meal for use is one of the oldest manufacturing enterprises of the state, and is closely and basically connected with agriculture. We can in our minds' eye see that barefoot boy with cheeks of tan and heart of joy wending his way to the old mill, on the back of old Dobbin, with his sack of corn evenly balanced, and returning with the corn converted into meal."

"In a land like Georgia, familiar with the use of corn bread and pot 'licker,' we would be loath to hold that the common ordinary miller was such an employer of labor, grinding the heart and ambition of his helpers, so that he is subjected to the harsh penalties of the Fair Labor Standards Act."

Spivey named the following men to serve as an honorary escort at the funeral: Governor Rivers, Senators Spivey, Dixon Smith, Everett Millican, Adie Durden, Walter Sanders, G. T. Cochran, Ernest Palmon, Roy Thrasher, Mose Benson, Don Howe Jr., M. L. Dunn Jr. and Harvey Brannen.

Pallbearers will be Henry Nevin, Hughes Skelton, Hamp McWhorter Jr., F. G. Bryan, James H. Patterson, Carter Peterson, Lamont Smith, Roy Chalkley and Clyde Puett.

An honorary escort will be composed of Judge Render Terrell, of Greenville; Secretary of State John B. Wilson; Dr. Joe P. Bowdoin, of the Department of Public Health; State Treasurer George B. Hamilton; Attorney General Ellis Arnall; Auditor Zach Arnold; B. E. Thrasher; Chancellor S. V. Sanford, of the University System; Chairman Clem Rainey, of the state parole board; Publisher W. T. DODD'S PAINTINGS
Georgia Artist Exhibits Work at Ferargil Galleries, Wins Praise.

(Picture on Page 30.)
Twenty-three paintings by Lamar Dodd, artist-in-residence at the University of Georgia, and a painter of southern scenes whose position in the art world grows yearly, now are on exhibition at Ferargil Galleries in New York, to remain through March 11.

The paintings in the New York show have been done in the past few years, many of them in the past few months. All, according to critics, show a richness in color and texture, a deeper understanding of form and atmosphere, a growing maturity.

Favorite theme of the LaGrange born artist is the play of sunlight on the autumn landscape, used most successfully in "Sage and Pine," "Sunlit Hill," and "Afternoon."

The lazy, languid grace of the Southern Negro is feelingly brought out, critics feel, in the slumberous portrait, "Spring Fever," a picture of Negroes riding in a battered wagon, burlap sacks shielding them against the rain. Mr. Dodd is said to impart a monumental quality frequently felt in great sculpture.

Mr. Dodd has been artist-in-residence at the university since 1937, and is head of the art department there.

HAT PLANTS CLOSE BECAUSE OF STRIKE
100 Members From Millinery Unions Picket Three Firms Here.

Three hat manufacturing plants were closed yesterday as 100 pickets from local millinery unions established patrols following a strike vote passed at a Tuesday meeting.

Forced to shut down were the American Hat Manufacturing Company at 160 Trinity avenue, the Standard Hat Company at 210 Pryor street and the M. Kutz Millinery Company at 166 Pryor street.

Although a police detail of 10 men was stationed in the vicinity during the morning and afternoon, little disturbance was reported. But one officer remained at each firm last night.

The strikers, members of the United Hatters, Cap and Millinery Workers' International Union, said they called the strike seeking recognition of the union as a bargaining agent. Questions of wages, seniority and working conditions also are involved, it was said.

CIVIL SERVICE IDEA MENACES STATE'S PATRONAGE PLUMS

Only Labor, Welfare
Departments So Far
Affected, But Drive
Is Expected To Spread

By ED BRIDGES,
Associated Press Staff Writer.

Recent legislatures have rejected proposals to clamp civil service requirements upon Georgia's 6,500 employees, but the merit system of hiring and firing is becoming a widening wedge in the state pay roll pie.

The wedge already blankets the approximately 500 workers in the employment and unemployment compensation divisions of the State Department of Labor, and soon will affect the 875 on the staff of the public welfare department.

An edict for civil service in these two agencies came from Uncle Sam, who puts up much of the cash for the jobless compensation and for social security benefits administered by the welfare department.

The last word heard about merit employment for the entire state government was months ago, when Governor Rivers announced he had found an existing law empowering him to establish such a system. It was a phrase in the budget law permitting him, as budget director, to draft personnel requirements.

But to date, civil service is confined to the labor and welfare departments.

In his several attempts to coax the legislature into merit laws, Rivers insisted that patronage was much more bother than it was worth. He contended also that the present system cannot possibly be as efficient.

"If I answered every application made for a job, personally, I would work every minute in the 24-hour day, every day in the year and never get even with the mail," he said. "At least 75 per cent of the people who come to see me come about a job, either for themselves or for a friend."

He illustrated: "First, the citizen writes or applies personally. Then there are letters and telegrams from his friends, and finally a request for an audience with a delegation. And that takes plenty of time."

Then, wryly, he added that after all this is over and the job is

AGENTS IN COLUMBUS PLAN CATTLE SHOW

Special to THE CONSTITUTION. — COLUMBUS, Ga., Feb. 28. — Agents from Russell, Tallapoosa, Harris, Macon, Lee, Chambers and Muscogee counties met here yesterday to complete plans for the third annual fat cattle show and sale, to be held at the fair grounds here March 26 and 27. The show will be sponsored by the Chattahoochee Valley Livestock Association and the Columbus Chamber of Commerce.

Colonel Tom McCord, of Montgomery, will be the auctioneer. The program will include a banquet for about 100 F. F. A. and 4-H Club youths, with one of the youths acting as toastmaster.

awarded, "you find you've made nine other people mad."

Some of the argument against civil service bills in the legislature centered on the contention that it would be next to impossible to purge any system of the political element.

Then, too, opponents held that such legislation might perpetuate in their jobs the appointees of one administration.

Aiming an argument at the taxpayer, Rivers declared civil service would increase efficiency of state workers.

"New workers appointed by a new administration spend the first six months becoming orientated to their duties," he explained, "and the last six months of the two-year tenure worrying about whether their administration will be continued in power."

Patronage a Bother. — But to date, civil service is confined to the labor and welfare departments.

In his several attempts to coax the legislature into merit laws, Rivers insisted that patronage was much more bother than it was worth. He contended also that the present system cannot possibly be as efficient.

"If I answered every application made for a job, personally, I would work every minute in the 24-hour day, every day in the year and never get even with the mail," he said. "At least 75 per cent of the people who come to see me come about a job, either for themselves or for a friend."

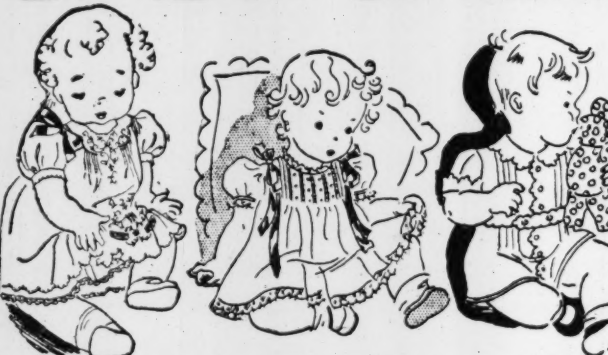

He illustrated: "First, the citizen writes or applies personally. Then there are letters and telegrams from his friends, and finally a request for an audience with a delegation. And that takes plenty of time."

Then, wryly, he added that after all this is over and the job is

ATLANTA, GA., FEBRUARY 29, 1940.

The New Highway

Work has been started on the final seven miles needed to complete the new, four-lane highway between Atlanta and Marietta. When this road is completed it will be one of the finest and most beautiful, scenic, in the south. It will be the main artery for passenger automobiles into Atlanta, and if its beauty is not destroyed, will issue to all visitors a silent, yet compelling, invitation to remain.

The new highway traverses some of the finest potential residential areas in the county. The land valuation is the highest per acre of any in Fulton and there are already approximately 1,000 picturesque homes within half a mile of the highway on either side.

When this new highway was first projected and rights of way were secured, the public was told it would be for exclusive passenger car traffic only, that trucks and buses would be barred from this route and would continue to use the old Marietta highway. Such segregation of traffic is provided on many routes in the north and west.

It is sincerely to be hoped that promise will be kept. To open this magnificent new road to bus and common carrier traffic would, inevitably, lower values of property in the vicinity and would also tend to bring roadside eyesores, such as have spoiled so many routes, into being.

It must be remembered, also, that to reach the new highway it is necessary to drive out North Side drive, which has so many steep grades, with consequent lack of distant vision on the upgrade, that heavy trucks, buses and other commercial vehicles would inevitably constitute a serious traffic menace. This drive is used daily by thousands whose homes are on the north side of the city and the use of this roadway by heavy trucks on grades requiring too great a braking power for their weight would endanger all who must traverse it.

Of course, even if there is no interruption, the final link of the new highway cannot be completed before the first of 1941. It is important, however, that heavy, commercial traffic be not granted permits to use any portion of the new road prior to its opening into Marietta. It is much easier for the authorities to keep them out, than to bar them from the highway after they have once begun its use.

There is, it is reported, a plan now forming for the widening and beautification of North Side drive, together with reduction of the grades. This, of course, will not be much more than begun when the highway to Marietta is complete. If heavy traffic was allowed to use this route, there would be constant interference and dangerous congestion while the North Side drive work was underway.

There is no reason why the system of civic planning cannot be applied to highway use, as well as to zoning of areas for business or residential uses.

The new Marietta highway, when complete, should be reserved exclusively for the use of passenger vehicles and, at the same time, steps should be taken to see that the scenic beauty of the route is not marred by advertising signs, by ramshackle roadside eateries or "dance and dine" emporiums, etc. Those service establishments necessary, such as gasoline stations in reasonable number, should be required to be of such appearance they will not mar the natural beauty of their surroundings.

The Fulton county planning commission is, it is understood, seeking just such a program for the Marietta highway. It is believed that the Georgia Public Service Commission and other authorities will co-operate to the fullest possible extent to insure these aims.

If the man without a country will stick around a while, there may presently be a country without a man.

Someone must try to remember what this Europe looked like, as by 1940 the younger film directors will be getting all wrong in their historical epics.

A western civic planner wants public statues put in the middle of ornamental pools. The water's depth, of course, would be governed by the height of the eyesore.

A London recruit complained that his army trousers chafed him under the arms. He was therefore offered the other size—the ones that are too small.

Opportunity for Great Service

It is to be doubted if any group has ever been given such opportunity for constructive service to the community as has the "Atlanta local government commission" created by the Fulton county grand jury.

Eleven individuals, three of them public officials and the others representative leaders in various fields of endeavor and of study, are charged with the duty of studying all details of local government in Atlanta, Fulton and adjacent counties, with the purpose of recommending, when that study is complete, what they believe the best form of government for the area involved and such changes, consolidations and improvements which should be made in the present set-up to give to the people the best possible governmental service for the tax dollars provided for the support of that government.

Previous surveys and reports are to be studied by the commission, with the objective of adopting their feasible and best features and it is the intent, after this commission completes its work, to establish here a system of government that shall not only be a model for other communities, but which shall be best adapted to those conditions peculiar to Atlanta.

For many years a large proportion of citizens have felt that there are serious faults in the present municipal and county control. There has been strong advocacy of a merger of the two systems, giving Atlanta and Fulton county one unit of government instead of two. This, however, is complicated by the fact that Atlanta is not confined to Fulton alone. A large area, including some of its most valuable property, is in DeKalb county.

Even among those who have opposed the one-government plan, however, there is a conviction that a number of the city and county functions could be consolidated both for economy and for greater efficiency. Undoubtedly this is true in some instances. Just what agencies should be merged and how the unified service could be best directed it is the duty of the new commission to decide and to recommend.

If this commission can so clarify the situation and expose its strengths and its weaknesses so that the average citizen can understand, it will have performed a service that may well develop into the greatest possible contribution towards that great metropolitan center, ever growing and ever improving, which men with vision have for long foreseen for this city.

John W. Hammond

The death of John W. Hammond removes from the Georgia scene a man who for many years has been a dominant figure in both the newspaper and political worlds.

For approximately a quarter-century there has been no more familiar figure about the offices and corridors of the state capitol than that of John Hammond. First as Atlanta correspondent for the Macon Telegraph and other Georgia papers, and more recently as secretary to the senate, he has been a familiar friend to practically every legislative or state house official, member or employee for many administrations.

A native of South Carolina, Mr. Hammond came to Georgia as a young man, beginning his newspaper career in Augusta. He was strongly partisan in many of his activities, but always was utterly honest in his convictions. He was a man who made a never-failing friend and one who will long be remembered with admiration by thousands of Georgians.

Editorial of the Day

SWEDEN'S PRESS FREEDOM

(From the Birmingham Age-Herald.)
Sweden has enjoyed freedom of expression since 1812, when the free press statute was adopted as one of the nation's four basic laws. The statute makes censorship of any kind illegal and guarantees absolute freedom of expression. Yet in recent months Sweden has been losing her freedom of expression, in fact if not in name.

Nazi Germany, from the very beginning of Hitler's rule, has been bringing pressure to bear on the little Scandinavian neighbor in an attempt to muzzle the outspoken Swedish editors. Today it appears that Nazi Germany has just about succeeded in breaking down the freedom of expression in Sweden.

Karl Gustaf Westman, the Swedish minister of justice, who not only is fearful of German reprisals for Swedish press attacks, but who also has leanings toward Nazi doctrines, has established a committee to "devise appropriate measures to prevent misuse of press freedom." With this committee as a blackjack and with the aid of an obscure law which makes individual citizens liable for criminal action for "offensive writings" about a foreign state, he is well on his way towards completely muzzling the anti-German press.

Not all Swedish editors have been brought into line yet. But most of them now are pretty much under the control of the minister of justice. There is not much adverse criticism of Nazi tactics in the Swedish newspapers, and some newspapers are fearful even to print news that is offensive to the German envoy.

There can be no freedom of expression unless individuals are at liberty to abuse that freedom. There can be no free press unless the press is free to give offense.

So long as Germany can control the Swedish press, there is a threat the Nazis will control Sweden.

THE CAPITAL PARADE

By JOSEPH ALSOP AND ROBERT KINTNER.

A NEW CONDITION WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—An extremely interesting new factor in the political situation is the unannounced but clearly discernible alliance between Alf M. Landon and Joseph W. Martin. Old guard Republican elements are obviously preparing for a raid on the party convention. Neither Landon nor Martin are old-guarders, and thus the Republican standard-bearer in 1936 and the Republican leader of the house have got together to form an opposing junta of moderates.

What the connection may be with Martin's resignation from the Republican national committee, is not yet apparent. Martin represents his recent move as purely personal and without deep meaning. At any rate, the work on the junta of moderates began some time ago, early in the winter.

THE FEAR OF HOOVER Landon is the prime mover; Martin the ostensible candidate around whom support will develop. It is much too early to say whether enough support will develop to transform Martin's rallying-point candidacy into a real candidacy for the Republican nomination. Probably this is not intended, for when Martin tells friends that the talk of his candidacy "helps me in the house, and anyway that kind of publicity hurts nobody," he sounds pretty sincere.

It is certainly intended, however, to stop former President Herbert Hoover, Pennsylvania Leader Joseph Pew and others whom Landon and his moderates think old guarders, from exercising the influence they hope to exercise at the Republican convention. Landon feels that in his 1936 campaign, he was pushed around and hampered by this type of man; and he is firmly convinced that if the Republicans are to win in 1940, the old guard must be powerless to push the candidate around again.

Above all, the now-forming junta of moderates is intended to prevent Hoover from capturing the nomination for himself. Landon's feeling about Hoover, considering his inherent mildness, is astonishingly hot. Landon is known to believe that the former President's incessant activities—his trips back and forth across the country, his effort to get together men who hold office in his administration, even his work for the Finns—are all intended to promote a "draft Hoover" movement.

While it is apparent that Hoover will be a force at the convention, most politicians think that any attempt to make him a candidate is most unlikely. But Landon is taking no chances.

LANDON'S TEAM The junta of moderates has already achieved respectable strength. Martin, a really able legislative leader, has come to be one of the most respected Republican figures. Governor George Aiken, of Vermont, with whom Landon recently conferred at length, is believed to be another New England junta sympathizer. Then, Kenneth Simpson, New York city leader, who will control the bulk of the New York delegates after their first two or three votes for Dewey, has also given signs of adhering to the junta. Hill Blackett, the Illinois national committeeman, is reported to be a sort of fellow traveler, and in the west Landon has other friends and allies who may well go along.

Even Martin, Simpson and Landon without other aid should be able to assert themselves with considerable effect in view of Simpson's relations with Hoover, his private talk in Martin's favor, and his general friendliness to Landon's aims, it can at least be taken for granted that he will be part of the combination.

Meanwhile, Landon's increasing stature in his party is a striking phenomenon. After the 1936 campaign, he was a candidate so badly beaten that it seemed impossible he could ever rise to influence again. Yet, he showed such excellent sportsmanship, and on occasion, public issues, he has spoken with such reasonableness and good sense, that he now seems more of a figure than during the pre-convention campaign that got him the party nomination. Especially in the west, his opinions are highly respected, and besides the Kansas delegation, he should control or have a say with scattered delegates in several other western states.

His effort to make the Republican party a party of moderation, while the Republicans and the Joe Grundys, is an effort which will add to the respect for him.

Culinary Diagnosis.

The lady of the house had lost a most excellent cook. And, living in a small town from which most of the colored household help had migrated to the city, had found extreme difficulty in replacing the dusky queen of the kitchen.

At last, in desperation, she engaged a tall, gangling woman who could be most aptly described as a "field hand." The acquisition was not much of a cook. In fact, she was almost a disaster.

The climax of discouragement came one dinner when certain objects misnamed "hot biscuits" were placed upon the table. The vivid description given me was that they appeared to be smallish discs of blotting paper fried in hog grease.

Afterwards, the lady of the house went back to the kitchen to do a little diplomatic discussing on the art of biscuit making.

"Amanda," she began, "you and I have got to learn how to make good biscuits. You know, those you made today weren't just what they should be. You are not a good biscuit cook. Frankly, neither am I. But we can learn."

"The only way to learn is to find out what caused each failure. Let us frankly admit, each time, what has been done wrong and, some day, we'll do it all right."

"Now, what do you really think was the reason those biscuits tonight came out so badly?"

"Ma'am," replied Amanda, stolidly, "they done just what dey dey iz and dey yoven hot done catch dem on de squat."

And that was that.

Speaking Of Food—

While on the subject of food, it has been a lifelong conviction of mine that most people eat more than they should for good health, anyway. I mean those people economically able to eat as much, or as little, as they wish.

The ancients axiomatic that most people dig their own graves with their teeth is one of the wisest of sayings. And I venture the assertion that a great proportion of poor work, of bad executive judgment, of domestic disturbance, and of social upheaval may be traced, as a matter of fact, to the physical discomfort, or pain, that follows too great indulgence in too rich or too tempting food.

If you are troubled with all these physical complaints that so many patent medicine vendors list as reasons for purchase of their nostrums, try cutting down a little on the daily dietary intake and see if you don't feel better.

Have you the habit of eating a hearty, three-course lunch at midday? Try a bowl of soup, a light dessert and a drink instead, for a week or two.

Do you feel foggy and thick of a morning? Does it take an hour or so of forced effort before you can really get into the swing and the enjoyment of your job?

How about eliminating the breakfast eggs and meat and hot cakes? Take a glass of fruit juice, a little cereal, toast and honey, only.

And, if the evening bridge game has been suffering, sternly repress the temptation for second helpings at the family dinner in the evening.

If Old Doc Jones' prescription don't help, consult the family physician at once. You must be in parlor condition.

Too Much Of Anything.

As a matter of fact, too much of anything changes good things into evil.

You can drink too much water, as well as too much Bourbon, you know.

Sun bathing is fine, but sunburn will kill.

Exercise is essential, but athletes' heart is often a fatal malady.

Work is man's greatest blessing, but he needs leisure time, too.

And leisure is an opportunity for culture and for diversity of interest, but too much leisure is what loafers are spawned of.

A good wife is the finest gift of life—but even Solomon could see nothing, but vanity in existence after he'd struggled with 500 wives for a few years.

Ho, hum. This could go on indefinitely.

But you can continue it for yourself. Go to it. See you tomorrow.

Talmudic Tales

By DAVID MORANTZ.

(Based upon the ancient legends and philosophy found in the Talmud and folklore of the Jewish people. From time to time David Morantz will also appear in this column questions he has been asked about the religion, customs, ceremonies, institutions, etc., of the Jews.)

OTHERS MAY BE IN GREATER NEED.

Rabbi Akiba, when a young man, was very poor. He was even reduced to such a state of poverty that it was necessary for him to go into the roads and fields to gather bits of straw to serve for a bed for himself and wife.

One day a beggar called at their humble hut and pleaded:

"Kind people, can you not spare a few bits of straw for my wife, who is ill and in great distress?"

They were glad to share their bit of straw with the stranger and after he had gone, the rabbi said to his good wife:

"How grateful we should be that we are able to help someone in greater need than we."

"As poor as we are, there are others who are even poorer than ourselves."

Says the Talmud further on the subject:

"Charity brings pleasure to the giver."

"Good deeds are better than creeds."

"He commits a sin who hesitates to practice the practice of charity. If thou hast given a coin to a poor man in the morning, and another one, in the evening, begs of you, give him also."

Czech Movies.

Despite greatly reduced market possibilities, Prague film studios managed to hold their production on the level of 1937 by turning out 36 Czech feature films.

The year 1937 is generally regarded as the best in the short history of the Czech film industry.

FAIR ENOUGH

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

It Remains NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—Some of my colleagues have been worrying themselves this morning over the proposition that a dollar simply vanishes and isn't any more after it has been wagered 10 times at a race track where the percentage amounts to a dime. The theory is that the dollar shrinks 10 per cent each time it comes to the post, but I am happy to be able to report that in practice it remains a dollar. I don't know why this is, but, nevertheless, it is, as anyone knows who ever wagers a bet or knew anyone who did.

The better's dollar and the taxpayer's dollar have about the same sort of experience, and somehow manage to come through their whole. Otherwise in some states, such as Illinois, where they have a sales tax, a dollar would be chewed away to nothing in a few minutes. Otherwise, also, on the mutual horse tracks some people would be paid off in 90-cent and 40-cent and 20-cent dollars, and some of them in nothing-dollars, and you would have not only the most baffling confusion but disorder, contusions and abrasions.

One man would be lucky enough to get back, say, six 80-cent dollars, three 20-cent dollars, and one nothing-dollar for an average of 57 cents per dollar, whereas another bloke winning a $10 bet might be paid off in five 20-cent dollars, one dime-dollar and four nothing-dollars for an average of 11 cents per dollar. Anyone can see that this would be bound to cause strife and the repeal of the racing laws.

Merely The theory of wear and tear on the wagered dollar is merely something for gaudyhouse mathematicians, legislators and people to talk about and it has been chewed like an old shoe in a kennel of pups.

In New York the bookmakers—a noble band of chiselers—organized a lobby to defeat the mutual proposal and had the nerve to argue so when it was notorious that the mutual tracks paid much higher returns than the New York rings, where the bookmakers had a free, untaxed monopoly on a popular vice.

The fact has been that the bookmakers conspire to regulate prices or odds, mostly downward. To the extent they have been justified in this, because the overhead for a bookmaker is much higher than that for a battery of mutual machines. An individual bookmaker takes down probably 25 per cent of every dollar bet, but, still, when the bookmaker does pay off he uses valid, undamaged 100-cent dollars. He would be lynched if he didn't.

The question whether it is advisable or, better yet, beneficial to the community to permit mutual betting is a light off a different match. If the community is landlocked, so to speak, and merely local money into its own machines, the traffic diminishes and precisely amounts to little more than nothing. But Rhode Island, for example, drains money from Boston, Connecticut and New York, and Florida, of course, soaks up cash from everywhere east of the Rockies—much of it stolen or grafted money, incidentally, brought in by the criminal scum of which Mr. J. Edgar Hoover has been muttering from time to time this winter.

Comes From But no community, except Monte Carlo, and possibly a few minor exceptions that you have in mind, ever contrives to reduce its regular taxes by the amount that it receives from gambling.

The Irish amassed a big fund for their hospital and public medical services with their hospitals sweep, of which the United States, for a long time was the principal patron, but the revenue came from the outside.

Originally the English bought vast numbers of lottery tickets, but there came an international dispute over the default of interest payments on Irish debts held by the English, and, in retaliation, the English forbade the Irish lottery in their country. I believe they offered the usual moral exhortations, but actually they were sore, not pious.

If and when New York gets mutual betting facilities great will be the revenues therefrom, but the taxpayers will receive no rebate on that account. They ought to, but they won't, and in a year or so everyone will forget all about the naive hope that the wages of sin would ease the load.

I hate to see the people worry unnecessarily, so it is a pleasure to announce with absolute certainty that no matter how many times a dollar has been wagered and trimmed by a dime each time, it remains a dollar-dollar and not a dime-dollar or a nothing-dollar when the winner presents his ticket at the pay window. I hope everyone will feel better now.

ONE WORD MORE

By RALPH MCGILL.

"THEIR PINCHED, WAN FACES" Last week Dewitt MacKenzie, the Associated Press foreign editor, spoke to the editors of Georgia in Athens for the annual Press Institute.

Mr. MacKenzie has had his share of war. He was through all the first World War as a correspondent. He often was under shell fire and machine gun fire. He had his share of waiting in shell holes for the advance to go on. He saw hundreds of men killed by shells, gas and bullets.

During the war, and after, he saw the effects of war on civilians. He saw the starving children. He stood before the editors, he said: "I've seen soldiers die in the blood bath of war. It was horrible and awful to see."

"I've seen the starving population. And as between seeing men killed and the pinched, wan faces of the children—well, if I have to see one I'll choose seeing soldiers killed."

He went on with his discussion, pointing out this war in Europe probably will be won by the nation which can, through hunger, break down the morale of the opposing peoples. In the last war Germany did not lose the war until the people revolted. Russia still had an army in the field when the people at home revolted.

"As between seeing their pinched, wan faces and soldiers dying—"

HERE IN ATLANTA You may see their pinched, wan faces in Atlanta. At Grady hospital you will be told that a great percentage of children's cases coming to them are starvation cases. They feed them, make them well, and send them home.

Within a few weeks they are back, sick and starved, their faces as pinched and as wan as any in Germany today.

It is difficult to dramatize them. There is nothing heroic about a figure prowling garbage cans at night.

There is nothing heroic about a semi-literate family existing on such pitiful amounts of food they always are hungry, always weak enough to fall before any disease which comes along.

Tuberculosis spreads most in the ranks of the ill-fed and the poorly housed.

That is true not only in the cities.

It is true in rural areas where soil erosion has so depleted the soil and the food crops that tenant and sharecropper, and even farmer families, develop tuberculosis and pellagra.

Tuberculosis and pellagra in rural Georgia are a very serious problem.

It is at its worst in those rural counties where soil conditions are worst.

There is nothing heroic about them.

When one thinks of the heroic Finns, fighting the Russian invaders, there is, very properly, a moving emotion, an urge to help them. And America, with Georgia doing a splendid job, did help the Finns. The whole world thrills or despairs as they halt the foe or retreat.

There are people suffering more in Fulton county and in Atlanta. There are the pinched, wan faces, more terrible to see than the killing of soldiers, at our own doors.

SOLVING THE PROBLEM Economy in the public works department would be a great help.

The convicts, who often do not work for weeks at a time, cost well over $2 per day each.

They must be guarded. They must be confined.

Would it not be practical to turn back the convicts to the state? They are the wards of the state. It is legal to return them.

The money spent on convicts could be spent on relief.

Instead of paying rent for all the single men on relief, they could be housed in the barracks—without guards.

They could be put to doing the same work the convicts do.

The cost of guards would be cut. The cost of bars and barricades would be avoided.

Is it not practical to consider turning back the convicts? Would that not be one very real economy?

THE GRAND JURY The grand jury, intelligently, seriously and perhaps prayerfully, considers the three mill tax. It wants to do the right thing.

It appears in the past that the hospitals first were cared for. What was left went to direct relief.

If any increase could be devoted to direct relief—food—then the basic problem might be attacked.

It is well known that after a man is off of the WPA rolls for a few weeks or months he more often than not descends into the unemployable class. He becomes sick from lack

Bright Planets Form Necklace Across Heaven

One of nature's rarest wonders, the five brightest planets in the heavens strung together in a line resembling a glowing necklace, was visible to Atlantans for a few minutes in yesterday's twilight.

Judge John D. Humphries, amateur astronomer of note, said Mars, Saturn, Venus, Jupiter and Mercury were all visible last night in the peak of their chainlike formation. In almost the same formation, they may be seen about 6 o'clock tonight, he said, if it is not cloudy.

Judge Humphries said that a similar formation of these planets will not occur again for a century.

First U. S. Soldier Captured By Germans Visits in Atlanta

Wounded Mississippi Man, Says He Was Treated Well.

The first American doughboy captured by the Germans in World War No. 1 was in Atlanta yesterday.

He is John P. Lester, of Holly Springs, Miss., who with 10 other first division soldiers was captured in the first raid by the Germans against the Americans.

Lester had just moved with his outfit into the front line trenches of the Tule sector when the raiding party of 400 Germans came over November 2, 1917, to get some American prisoners.

"I don't know how they got me, but the first thing I knew they had me," Lester said. "Eleven of us were caught. The Germans didn't know what to do with us. I was wounded in both legs and the first place they took me was to a hospital."

Treated Well. Lester, who stands over six feet, was a little hesitant to speak about his war experiences, but he laughingly commented that the Germans probably treated him better than Americans treated the Germans.

"We had a strong government behind us and the Germans were taking no chances about mistreating us as they did the English and French," Lester said.

After being dismissed from the hospital, Lester and his companion prisoners were shifted about Germany, ending up at Fort Kameke, an underground fortification near the Russian border. For months he was in a German prison camp, doing manual labor and losing 70 pounds in the four months immediately following his capture before the Red Cross got food boxes through to them. Immediately after their capture, three doughboys were taken away from Lester and his group and he said only one of them was ever seen again.

The prisoners were supplied with German newspapers and with the aid of pins on a map on the wall they kept up with the war's progress, learning about the armistice three days before it went into effect, Lester said. He returned from Germany to England after the British prisoners.

Today Lester is 51, married and has seven children. And if the United States got into another war, he'd "volunteer again."

GOOD MORNING

By LOUIE D. NEWTON.

HALCYON DAYS.

Dr. W. Holmes Coats, president of the Baptist Theological College, Glasgow, Scotland, writing under date of February 14, says: "Much water has flowed beneath the bridges since those halcyon days last July when we assembled beneath the glowing Georgia sun for the sixth world congress in Atlanta. They are days never to be forgotten, and all the more memorable for the dark shadow which has since fallen on the world."

Dr. Coats, long an acknowledged leader in the religious and cultural life of Scotland, had a prominent role in the world gathering of Baptists in Atlanta last July, reading one of the three principal reports at the congress. He responded for Scotland in the roll call of the nations, and delivered one of the great sermons of the congress at Druid Hills on Sunday, July 23, which was carried on a nation-wide broadcast.

In this letter he received from Dr. Coats, he goes on to say: "In the conflict that has overtaken us, we are encouraged by the practically universal sympathy of the whole world. Such critics seem to forget the British policy of nonintervention which has been pursued for the past half-dozen years—generally with the approval of the critics. . . . I cannot say that I personally am very proud of that policy, which seems to me to lie at the root of our present troubles, though there were practical reasons for its adoption. But we cannot in fairness criticize our American friends for adopting the same line in their own circumstances. . . ."

Feeling that many of our people will be glad to have the seasoned judgment of a Britisher of Dr. Coats' wide knowledge, I pass on the above statements from his letter. Whatever the future may hold, we may well rejoice in the friendship of the world's great English-speaking groups of the world, and whilst there are divergent opinions within our own nation regarding our relationships with Britain, I am fully convinced that our people generally appreciate the contribution which Britain has made across the centuries in maintaining a world order of decency.

We are, I am bound to believe, of one mind in praying that the right way may be found in the present acute situation by which the lights, which Sir Edward Grey saw going out in 1914, may again glow upon the altar of freedom, not only in Europe, but the world around. Indeed, we pray that all nations may again experience halcyon days—days in which men shall gladly walk in the way of the Lord.

WAR ON SPEEDING. MOULTRIE, Ga., Feb. 28.—(P) Police Chief L. L. Smith warned motorists of a renewed drive against traffic violations, particularly against speeding, disregarding of stop signs and reckless driving. "Moultrie has not had a fatal automobile accident in at least three years and every citizen should do everything possible to guard this record," Chief Smith said.

DR. JOHN FREEMAN DIES; RITES TODAY

Had Practiced Medicine Here for More Than 40 Years.

Dr. John F. Freeman, 71, a practicing physician here for more than 40 years, died early yesterday at his home, 1018 Hemphill avenue, N. W.

Although he had been in declining health for some time, he had been seriously ill for only 10 days. Dr. Freeman was a native of old Campbell county, and was graduated from the College of Medicine, Chattanooga, in the class of 1892. He moved to Atlanta a few years later.

He was an honorary member of the Fulton County Medical Society, the Warren A. Candler Methodist church and the Junior Order.

Surviving are four daughters, Mrs. F. C. Groover, Mrs. Lyman L. Smith, Mrs. Roscoe G. Gann and Mrs. Harley D. Brown; two sons, Conway H. and John F. Freeman Jr.; a sister, Mrs. Nancy Hudson; a brother, Allison W. Freeman, and several grandchildren.

Funeral services will be conducted at 3 o'clock this afternoon at the Warren A. Candler Methodist church by Dr. Ellis A. Fuller and the Rev. Herman Allison. Burial will be in Crest Lawn cemetery under direction of H. M. Patterson & Son.

Pallbearers will be Dr. T. M. McCleskey, J. F. Mayes, R. E. Jones, Dr. S. T. Biggers, L. N. Misenheimer and R. E. Hancock.

LEAGUES ON JOB.

AMERICUS, Ga., Feb. 28.—(P) The Junior Welfare League took advantage of election day to sell sandwiches, cold drinks and coffee to hungry voters. Proceeds will go toward improving the Negro hospital.

APPLES FOR EATS.

AMERICUS, Ga., Feb. 28.—(P) Instead of taking an apple to the teacher, members of the Junior High P-T. A. sold them, to raise funds for the school cafeteria and library.

ONE VARIETY COTTON.

VIDALIA, Ga., Feb. 28.—Farmers of the Marvin-Yancey community in Toombs county are completing plans for establishment of a one-variety cotton program.

The Pulse of the Public

The columns of The Constitution are always open to the expressions of the public, regardless of the opinion expressed. The only limitation on communications is that they shall be signed; be brief—preferably not longer than two or three hundred words—and not libelous. All communications will be subject to editing, and none will be returned unless postage is inclosed.

WANTS TALMADGE FOR GOVERNOR

Editor Constitution: In the present administration the state has been taken from the point where it had seven and one-half million dollars in actual cash on the credit side of the ledger to the point where it is now some forty-nine million dollars on the debit side of the ledger.

Besides this, heretofore unheard of deficiency the state has suffered irreparable damage to its reputation and aroused people are calling for the cessation of hostilities among the various state officials and demanding that a co-operative group of public servants be placed in office. To say the least, never before in the history of the state of Georgia has a political squabble of such insignificance been allowed to become the laughing stock of the whole United States.

It has been my good fortune to have traveled extensively throughout the state during the last six months. From the share cropper in the fields, the mill worker in the mill, the village storekeeper, the small town banker, the businessman of the city, and the financial magnet of the state, I heard the same thing. They all want a man who will put the good of the people before his own political problems and greed. They are tired of politicians and want statesmen for leaders. The one man who, to my mind, can lead us out of the chaos is former Governor Eugene Talmadge, who incidentally is one of the few great statesmen left in this state. He is the one governor who, during his term of office carried out to the best of his ability and with the utmost efficiency all promises made by him during his campaign for the office of governor.

PENSION DEMANDS GO BEYOND REASON

Editor Constitution: Congratulations on your editorial this morning, "Patriotism Knows No Price." Certainly no fair-minded citizen wants anything but every consideration and compensation for those veterans who suffered loss or physical disability on account of their service, but it is high time the American people took a united stand against the American Legion's stranglehold on our politicians (so-called statesmen).

The government did an inestimable favor for hundreds of youngsters in taking them off the streets in 1917, clothing them and supporting them (much to the relief of their harassed parents) for their services of drilling in camps a few months.

Since the Armistice, the public has been called upon for a superlative of patriotism in providing pensions for perfectly well men with good jobs, who, by friendship or family connections with those who have "pull," have continued to draw fat pensions, in spite of the fact our government is striving to bring some small degree of educational advantages to our youth and decent living to millions of its underprivileged citizens.

Now, these veterans are asking a perpetuation of this greedy hold for their descendants. It seems that those of us who were privileged to serve our country only by living meagerly during the war, having meatless, sugarless meals, all types of privations so that these soldiers could have the best, should now demand some real demonstration of patriotism on the part of these veterans by their using some reason in their demands on our government treasury.

We, who could not serve our country by wearing khaki uniforms and drilling, should organize in our efforts to combat this privileged and highly organized group whose demands seem to be limitless.

MRS. J. V. WOODRUFF.

WANTS STAMP FOR UNCLE REMUS

Editor Constitution: I wish to start a movement not only in Atlanta but everywhere to honor Joel Chandler Harris (Uncle Remus) by placing his likeness upon a commemorative United States postage stamp this year if possible but if not now at least in the near future. Won't you most kindly see that this letter gets the publicity it would need to do just that.

As you know The Atlanta Constitution was his home, so I feel you will do all you can to further this worthy project. This year Mr. Farley, our postmaster general, is getting out seven groups of five each commemoratives so now is a splendid time to agitate the philatelists of the country over will help carry it to a successful end.

JUSTICE REMEMBERS ARREST-MAN FORGOT

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—(P)—Three years in prison for stealing $2.95. . . . That was the sentence imposed on Joseph King, 34, after he told three special sessions justices he never had been arrested before he was picked up for robbing a woman of her purse containing $2.95. "What about 1926 when you were arrested on a charge of mail fraud in Ham-tranck, Mich.?" Justice Max Salomon asked the prisoner. "Where'd you get that from?" King asked. "I forgot about that." "We're going to send you to the penitentiary—that means three years," the court replied. "I think maybe you'll remember that."

NEW LAND MAPPED BY BYRD EXPEDITION

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(P)—The aerial mapping of a 100-mile strip of newly discovered land in the Pacific quadrant south of Cape Horn was reported to the Navy today by the government's Antarctic expedition.

From a naval seaplane Lieutenant George Dufek, naval flier, also charted new mountains east of the area discovered a day earlier by Rear Admiral Richard E. Byrd, expedition leader. The flight, which extended 90 miles south from the expedition flagship Bear, disclosed that two ranges sighted from a distance by Byrd paralleled the coast in an east and west direction. A score of mountain peaks rose 3,500 to 4,000 feet high.

FATHER TO OBSERVE HIS SIXTH BIRTHDAY

STERLING, Ill., Feb. 28.—(P)—Bela Larson will observe his sixth birthday tomorrow and his daughter, Carolyn, will observe her first. Both were born in leap years, father on February 29, 1916, and daughter on February 29, 1936.

PANSIES DEFY SNOW, BLOOM IN MIDWINTER

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., Feb. 28.—(P)—The calendar says it's still winter—but: Several bunches of blooms have pushed up through the snow from the pansy plants Mrs. Regina McCallan set out a few weeks ago.

DUCK IS DROWNED BY 'BITING' OYSTER

OCEAN PARK, Wash., Feb. 28.—(P)—Oyster fishers saw a duck struggling in the water as the tide rose. They investigated, but too late. An oyster had closed its shell on the duck's foot and it drowned.

SALLY TO PREPARE SALADS FOR SPRING

Cooking Class To Be Held at Grant Park Methodist Church.

The longed for spring weather calls for springtime meals, so Sally Saver, food editor of The Constitution, a jump ahead of the season, will offer "Ideas for Springtime Meals" to the Women's Mission Society of Grant Park Methodist Church at her cooking class at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning at the church.

Sally will prepare salad variations, some as complimentary dishes and some suitable for use as a main course dish.

Colorful and varied dishes will be included in Miss Saver's menu: elbow macaroni salad, with red pimientos and green peppers; asparagus au gratin; baked stuffed fish; molded cranberry salad; shrimp salad in seashells, and spiced bean salad flavored with onions—a hearty main dish.

A refrigerator cake with dates, marshmallows, and nuts, will be prepared as the springtime dessert, good with any menu.

Sally gives these small, informal schools so that readers may have the opportunity of intimately discussing their food problems with her.

The schools are sponsored by The Constitution, and are held in various localities for the convenience of local organizations.

All the food prepared by Miss Saver will be given away, as will the products donated by local merchants.

Sally will work in a kitchen completely equipped with the latest model stove, refrigerator, and steam roaster, which have been loaned for use at the schools.

MAN, CLOTHES AFIRE, BURROWS INTO SNOW

CUT BANK, Mont., Feb. 28.—(P)—The reason Glen Day's imitation of a rotary snowplow was so convincing was because Day's clothes were on fire.

They were ignited by burning gas escaping from a high pressure line he was digging out of the snow. Day plunged into a snowbank and burrowed through it for 30 feet, quenching the blaze.

OPERATOR IS KILLED WHEN CRANE TOPPLES

BATON ROUGE, La., Feb. 28.—(P)—An overloaded dock crane, toppling 40 feet into the Mississippi river today, carried to death its operator, S. Guidry, 35.

Guidry managed to extricate himself from the crane's cab and floundered in the water. A Negro dock hand threw a lifeline, but Guidry, an excellent swimmer, apparently stunned in the fall, sank and drowned.

ELECTION OF WOMAN SAVES U. S. $10,000

CLEVELAND, Feb. 28.—(P)—The election of Mrs. Frances P. Bolton as Ohio's first congresswoman saved the United States treasury $10,000. Congress, according to custom, had voted her that amount as the widow of a member.

"To accept this under the circumstances would be excessive," she wrote the treasury in returning the check.

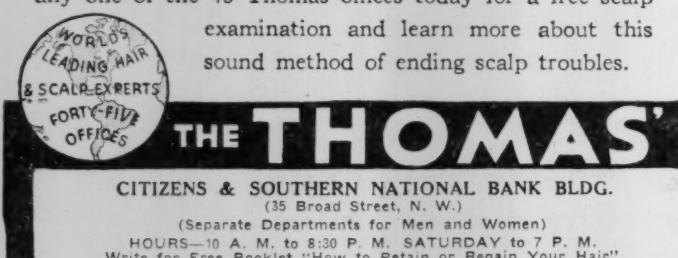

"In Washington, D. C., it was found that more than 72 per cent of all juvenile probationers came from crowded or congested dwellings," says the United States Housing Authority, which finds that much juvenile delinquency links with slum homes.

Fraternities Going Democratic, Snobs on Decline, Says Dean

But Still There Are Many Problems for the Boys and Girls.

By WILLARD COPE.
So the comely but unpledged co-ed says tearfully to the Dean of Women:

"I'm aimin' to quit this school." "And why?" inquires the D. of W. "And after only five weeks?" "Well," begins the co-ed, and sort of sniffs, "I was sure the Eta Beta Pi's would be rushin' me, and nobody ain't."

We will quote Dean Fred Field, of Georgia Tech, on that one because there are no co-eds at Tech, but it really happened on one of the campuses, or campi, around Atlanta, and it illustrates a problem of fraternity and sorority life. Things aren't anywhere near as snobbish, or difficult, as they used to be, however.

"Legacy" Problem.
Still, there is the "legacy" problem, involving descendants, more or less desirable, of prominent alumni and brethren, who expect the good old chapter to do its duty; there are the "two-semester grads" who come just for the pin; there are the over-played aspirants, the relatives, the lads and lassies who take it much too seriously along divers and sundry other tangents—all going to make life interesting for the deans and/or doyens previously referred to.

"Fraternities," declared Dean Field when his views of these arresting sociological phenomena were solicited yesterday, "are pretty good. They have their faults, but they are much better than they were when I first started wrestling with them 25 years ago."

"Of course, the basis of selection of members is intended to be personality. It is the 'gang' rather than the 'class' or 'family' theory of grouping. Boys who are alike are naturally drawn to each other. The most successful chapters are, of course, those which follow this very simple rule. Other factors do enter, nevertheless."

Democratic Feeling.
No one down this way should know better than the dean. He is the director of the southeastern section of the National Intrafraternity Conference which will meet at Tech March 22 and 23.

The snobbery count, one of the strongest formerly leveled against fraternities, doesn't hold much truth any more, according to Miss Mary Feebeck, dean of women at Oglethorpe.

She believes the depression has done it—and a good job, too.

"We have just as many nice girls outside sororities as in them," she said. "Of course, sororities cost some money, and lots of good families have lost most of their money. The girls feel they can afford to go to college but not to join the sororities."

"This makes for a very democratic feeling. Fraternity boys go with nonfraternity girls, and vice versa. I do consider that fraternities and sororities have a definite place in college life. They give parties. They create a social atmosphere. They contribute much of grace and charm."

Oglethorpe has three sororities, and Miss Feebeck regards this as enough.

"Various other national organizations have approached us," she said, "but our view is that the present situation is just about well balanced."

Seeking out the nonofficial point of view, the investigator wandered over the campus at Emory, plucking off an unsuspecting youth here and there and asking him how about it.

Student Differs.
Everything he learned can be summed up neatly by the following quotation of a tall boy, with pimples, spectacles, books and an upper garment that looked like one of those rubber shirts they use to make jockeys run around Louisville, Ky., in to take off weight:

"You can't learn anything from dreams. There's no sense asking them. Any of the boys will tell you that if you belong to a fraternity—and some, more so than others—you 'rate, and if you don't, unless you're a genius, you don't 'rate.' That's the long and short of it."

The youth wisely declined to give his name, bowed courteously and continued on his way.

In a moment of mental lapse the interviewer consulted Dean Carrie ("Dick") Scandrett, of Agnes Scott College.

"What headaches," she was ask-

DOG AROUSES FAMILY, HIDES AS FIRE FLARES

ALTOONA, Pa., Feb. 28.—(AP)—The barking of Sandy, wire-haired terrier, awakened the family of Howard C. King as fire broke out in a double house.

King awakened Mrs. Grace Bought and her daughter, Jean, 16, the other occupants of the house. Firemen extinguished the blaze—then had to remove a section of the kitchen floor to rescue the frightened dog from his hiding place.

ed, "do the sororities give you and your charges?"

Even over the telephone you could tell she was smiling—possibly with no little superiority, too.

"None," she replied sweetly. "You see, we haven't any sororities."

PLANET AUTHORITY TO SPEAK TONIGHT

Dr. Clyde Fisher Will Talk at Tech on 'Exploring Universe.'

Tonight as five planets streak across the southwest sky in zig-zag order, the one who definitely speaks what it's all about will speak at Georgia Tech. He is Dr. Clyde Fisher, director of the Hayden Planetarium and curator of astronomy at the American Museum of Natural History in New York.

At 8:30 o'clock in the school's gymnasium-auditorium, he will talk on "Exploring the Universe," a topic which he will bring to earth by use of slides and non-technical language. Although sponsored by the Tech lecture association, the talk will be open to the public.

Prominent in mathematical and ornithological circles as well as astronomy, Dr. Fisher has led expeditions to Peru in 1937 to study a solar eclipse, to Siberia in 1936 for a solar eclipse, photographic expeditions to the Bermudas and Lapland.

Tomorrow night at 8:30 o'clock he will discuss, in a lecture illustrated by motion pictures, the Einstein theory of relativity in the same non-technical language which has made him a popular scientific speaker in all sections of the nation.

His honors and activities are widely diversified. Along with memberships in many astronomical societies, he is also a member of the New York Bird and Tree Club, the Torrey Botanical Club and the American Nature Study Society.

When EPIDEMICS rage.. keep within this "Circle of Protection."

THE new epidemic is now upon us, but there's no need to become panicky. People usually escape illness if they fortify themselves with the "Circle of Protection," that is, take the following precautions:

1. Get at least eight hours' sleep every night.
2. Open windows wide before retiring so as to get plenty of fresh air. But avoid drafts.
3. Refrain from overeating, especially sweets. Keep the bowels open.
4. Exercise at least fifteen minutes in the open every day.
5. Wash hands frequently so as to keep them free from germs as far as possible.
6. Avoid overheating in home or office.

IMPORTANT

Never breathe through the mouth. Only the nose can warm up cold air before it strikes the tender membranes. Only the nose can filter out irritating dust and other impurities which break down resistance to disease. If your nostrils are clogged—up due to a cold or nasal catarrh, insert Mentholum in them night and morning. Mentholum will soothe the irritated membranes and help relieve the local congestion in the nostrils, thus enabling you to breathe more freely through the nose instead of the mouth.

N. B. If any member of your family has sore throat, fever (over 98 degrees), chills, headache, extreme weakness, and aching of back and limbs, put him to bed and call your physician at once.

At the STATE CAPITOL

Paul Weir, chief chemist of the Atlanta waterworks department, will speak at the bimonthly meeting of the State Chemistry Club at noon tomorrow in the library of the state chemist, Dr. J. P. Yarbrough, announced yesterday.

Ben F. Meyer, head of the Associated Press Bureau in Mexico City, visited friends at the capitol yesterday.

T. Grady Head, revenue commissioner, said yesterday income tax returns are coming in about "average." The deadline for making returns is March 15.

Judge G. O. Kaigler, of Georgetown, a representative in the general assembly, visited the executive offices yesterday. Senator M. E. Groover was another state visitor to the capitol.

Mr. and Mrs. John M. Moore, of Denver, Col., and a college delegation from Pennsylvania were among those signing the official register at the capitol yesterday.

The young daughter of Downing Musgrove, executive secretary to Governor Rivers, came to see her father at the capitol for the first time Tuesday. Her name is Lyneth Lucile, and she was born January 3. Since Governor Rivers was out of town yesterday, Musgrove was occupying the Governor's chair. The child and her mother were on their way to visit the latter's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. W. Moore, in Swainsboro.

Mrs. Kathleen Hogan, official busman at the capitol, has been named chairman of a committee to raise funds from state employees for the Franklin D. Roosevelt library at Hyde Park. She was appointed by Erle Cooke, state chairman. Other members of her committee are M. E. Thompson, Jim L. Gillis, Downing Musgrove and W. B. Brantley. The state employees' quota was set at $1,250.

Forty-seven per cent of the 70,000 to 75,000 Atlantans who file annual tax returns with the city already have done so for 1940, a check of records yesterday by Joe C. Little, senior tax assessor, revealed. This is about 15 per cent ahead of the same time last year. Little predicted the half-way mark will be reached by Friday night. Tax books close March 15.

Dr. Willis A. Sutton, city school superintendent, and three other executives of the department—Dr. H. Reid Hunter, Dr. E. R. Enloe and Dr. H. H. Bixler, are attending a convention of the American Association of School Administrators at St. Louis. They will return to Atlanta Monday.

Members of Grady hospital board of trustees yesterday discussed tentative plans for construction of an $80,000 service building at Battle Hill sanatorium, which the group also administered. The meeting was held at the sanatorium.

Executives of retail food houses yesterday conferred with Mayor Hartsfield concerning a projected ban on shipping of produce on Sunday. They pointed out that perishables must be moved if they are to reach consumers undamaged.

Mayor Hartsfield yesterday asked Congressman Ranspess to take steps to have a postage stamp issued honoring Joel Chandler Harris, creator of "Uncle Remus." In a letter to the congressman, the mayor pointed out that a stamp bearing the likeness of James Whitcomb Riley, the Hoosier poet, has been issued, and asked why Harris should not be given the same recognition.

"The flu is over," said Dr. John P. Kennedy, city health officer, yesterday, commenting on the balmy sunshine day. For the past two months, hundreds of Atlanta citizens have been sent to bed with severe colds and influenza, but the break has come, Dr. Kennedy thinks.

FHA SMALL HOME DRIVE PROGRESSES

Homes Costing Less Than $3,000 Sought.

Progress in the Federal Housing Administration's 1940 campaign to stimulate construction and sale of small homes costing less than $3,000 was reported yesterday by R. E. Matheson, state director. Matheson pointed out that since the first of the year more than 25 per cent of the applications for mortgage insurance submitted at the Atlanta insuring office had been for homes costing less than $3,000.

Since February 1, he said, about 30 per cent of the applications have come within the low-price classification.

S.S.S. TONIC must be good

So many people take it —to increase appetite —to boost energy

COUNTLESS thousands of men and women can testify to the benefits S.S.S. Tonic has brought them. The facts are simple because of all conditions affecting the human body a low blood count is most deceptive. If you feel run down . . . lack a keen appetite . . . have lost weight . . . don't give up until you restore those precious red-blood-cells back to normal.

S.S.S. Tonic may be just what you need to get you on the right road to health and happiness again.

In S.S.S. Tonic you go after the trouble in two ways . . . first you increase the appetite and better your stomach digestion—thus making better use of the food you eat—secondly, thin, weak, watery blood is made rich and red again thus giving you a boost in energy.

Try S.S.S., which any drug store can supply and no ethical dealer will suggest a substitute. The big 20 oz. size is a two week's treatment and represents a saving in the purchase price. S.S.S. Co.

In Atlanta, women have been engaged in the field since 1900, the first one being a member of The Constitution business department."

1/4 as big as the Czech Army that Germany ran over . . .

FLOOD LOSS MOUNTS IN CALIFORNIA AREA

Damage Reported More Than Half Million; 3,500 Homeless.

(Other pictures on Page 30)

The mercury dipped far below zero in central and northeastern sections of the nation last night as Californians battled flood waters that made between 3,500 and 4,000 homeless, inundated farm lands, and disrupted traffic on rails and highways.

A vast area of the upper half of California was under water.

Two deaths were attributed to the flood. Harold E. Von Bergen, hydraulic engineer, drowned at Sacramento in the capsizing of a boat as he measured the river's overflow. At Redding, the body of Irene Clemens, 19, was recovered after her car overturned in a creek.

Rivers swept over their banks in the wake of deluging rains. While the Weather Bureau predicted two or three days of fair weather before another storm could hit, it warned that precautionary measures in the vast river network of the Sacramento valley must not be relaxed.

A cloudburst sent three raging streams down on Berkeley, and caused damage estimated at $100,000 within 10 minutes.

Santa Cruz, 55 miles south of San Francisco, reported damage unofficially estimated at $500,000.

BUDAPEST POLICE MENACE LEGATION HOLDING REFUGEES

Czech Fugitives Win Shelter From French, Who Give Passports as Protection Device.

BUDAPEST, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Buda police, said to have been forced to act as a result of German pressure, today laid a virtual siege around the French legation here, where 40 Czech-Slovak refugees were harbored with new French passports.

Nazi threats concerning Hungary's "wide-open frontier," with demands that Hungary return men who had fled from jails of the German secret police in the protectorate of Bohemia and Moravia, resulted in attempts to break up the "underground railway" which has been operating under official French auspices from Bohemia and Moravia to France.

Hundreds of other Czech-Slovak refugees, most of them held in Hungarian jails, declared they

WPA Sends Man To Guard Goods In Police Station

CHICAGO, Feb. 28.—(AP)—The WPA piled lumber and plaster materials on the floor of the West North avenue police station today, preparatory to the start of a remodeling project.

Tonight a man walked into the squad room and settled himself comfortably beside the heap. Curious policemen asked his purpose. Said Strather Wallace, a slow spoken Negro: "I'm the watchman on this project."

He faced deportation to Germany as a result of Nazi pressure. Many of them said they feared they would be put to death if they were deported.

A band of 48 Czech-Slovak men who were held in the Budapest citadel wrote neutral legations that "the influence of the Gestapo (German secret police) has forced the Hungarians to treat us severely."

Sixteen policemen and detectives surrounded the French legation grounds today, with orders to arrest everyone who leaves with new French passports. Police tried to follow the orders, but failed to halt the limousine of the French minister, Pierre Guetels, in which they said five Czech refugees were spirited away by the chauffeur.

Smith, manager of the south Georgia area; Fonville McWhorter, Atlanta district manager; and Byron A. Pinkston, district manager for Fulton, DeKalb and Rockdale counties outside of the Atlanta district.

MILLER MAY SEEK U.S. CONTEMPT WRIT

Ousted Chairman Again Barred From State Highway Office.

W. L. Miller, denied possession of the office of chairman of the state highway board again yesterday, said last night his attorneys probably would seek an order compelling Governor Rivers and national guard officers for contempt of federal court.

Miller visited the highway building during the afternoon with Thomas Branch Sr., one of his attorneys, but was halted at the door of the chairman's office by Sergeant J. D. Garrett, of the national guard.

Sergeant Garrett advised the ousted chairman that guard orders had not been changed "since the last time you were here."

Miller was armed with a recently obtained federal court injunction restraining the adjutant general and his aides from preventing his entry into the office from which Governor Rivers ousted him several weeks ago.

Governor Rivers previously had refused to recognize state court orders that upheld Miller's claim to the highway chairmanship.

Miller said the next step was up to his attorneys but that he did not know when they would act.

CARDENAS URGES PROGRAM FOR OIL

Plan Calls for Payment on Seized Properties.

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 28.—(AP)—President Lazaro Cardenas proposed today a comprehensive 14-point program for reorganization of the government petroleum industry to place it on "a sane, intelligent economic basis" and "permit payment of indemnification" for expropriated foreign oil properties.

Outstanding among the chief executive proposals were recommendations for sharp salary reductions, elimination of "useless jobs" and a drive to increase foreign exports from 60,000 to 200,000 barrels daily.

Cardenas also suggested that 20 per cent of the receipts from foreign sales be set aside to "establish a fund to pay indemnities" to expropriated companies.

Leaders of the militant Petroleum Workers' Union, who heard the President's proposals at a closed meeting attended by executives of the government oil administration, voiced immediate objections.

They asserted the proposals would cause "unnecessary dismissal" of at least 2,592 of the 16,442 persons now employed by the industry.

The 1940 census is expected to show about 11 per cent fewer children under 10 years of age than in 1930.

BRITISH SURRENDER NAZIS TO JAPAN

Nine Sailors Taken From Japanese Boat Are Returned.

YOKAHAMA, Feb. 29, (Thursday)—(UP)—The British cruiser Kanimbla today transferred to Japanese authorities here nine of the Germans seized January 21 by a British warship from the Japanese passenger liner Asama Maru.

Delivery to Japan of nine of the 21 German sailors taken from the Asama Maru in Japanese waters was the settlement previously agreed upon by the British and Japanese governments.

The Germans were passengers on the Japanese vessel, having sailed from the United States seeking to reach Germany. The British claimed the right to hold the others on the grounds that they were subject to military service in the Reich.

NORWAY TO REMAIN 'STRICTLY NEUTRAL'

Foreign Minister Declares Country Will Not Help Finland.

OSLO, Norway, Feb. 28.—(UP)—Norway's attitude toward the Russo-Finnish war is identical with that of Sweden and Norway will not intervene to aid the Finns.

Foreign Minister Halvdan Koht told the United Press in an exclusive interview today.

His country's decision is based on the same belief shared by King Gustaf, of Sweden, that intervention in Finland would place all Scandinavia in great danger of becoming involved in the European war, Koht said.

He pointed out that the enlistment of volunteers and the contribution of a large sum of money for humanitarian purposes indicated public sympathy for Finland, but reiterated that his government, with that of Sweden, had adopted a policy of strict neutrality.

Koht declined to discuss whether Soviet conquest of Finland would carry implications of trouble for Norway.

"I have said publicly, however, that it is a historical fact that Russia has never made any demands whatsoever on Norway," he said.

Although Norway has received no reply from Britain on Oslo's proposal to arbitrate the questions raised by the Altmark incident, the foreign minister was confident an early agreement would be reached.

"Many points already are agreed upon," he said. "It has been agreed that the Altmark is a warship and was not in a Norwegian harbor. We did not search a warship for prisoners."

"Norway must have the satisfaction due a sovereign nation. Surely the British will have to admit that the violation (by the British navy of Norwegian territorial waters) had no legal reason. This admission would be no humiliation for England."

He revealed that two German merchant ships recently in a Norwegian harbor had been searched for prisoners.

HELP KIDNEYS PASS 3 PINTS A DAY

Doctors say your kidneys contain 15 miles of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. Kidneys remove excess acids and poisonous waste from your blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes show there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They keep kidneys happy and help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from your blood. Get Doan's Pills.

CLEAN UP or CLOSE UP

Georgia's beer industry, which employs more than 10,000 Georgians, has payrolls of $6,000,000 and pays $4,000,000 annually in taxes, banded itself together February 14 to eliminate undesirable conditions where they are permitted in a minority of the State's 3,000 legal beer outlets.

Recognizing that beer's good name in Georgia, as in other states, suffered from a law-violating minority, the beer industry organized itself into the Brewers and Beer Distributors Committee of Georgia. This committee represents 98 per cent of the industry in the state. Our purpose is to maintain the beer industry permanently on a respectable basis.

Chosen to head this self-regulatory program was Judge John S. Wood of Canton, Ga., former Solicitor-General and Superior Court Judge, and "former" member of Congress.

In his hands the industry placed authority to deal sternly with the small percentage of beer retailers who refuse to observe the laws and the sentiment of their community.

Judge Wood will call on state, county or city officials in behalf of the organized beer industry to revoke the licenses of such retail outlets.

The industry will also refuse to sell beer to outlets operating in violation of the law.

Public officials and the press praised this program as "definitely in the public interest," a "real public service," and a move of wisdom, foresight and respect for law. "You, the public, can help in this campaign by patronizing only reputable, law-abiding places selling beer."

JUDGE JOHN S. WOOD
State Director

ACTION!

On February 15, the day after the Beer Committee's formation, newspapers reported that four high school boys in Spalding County were suspended after buying illegal whiskey from a "hot spot" near the school grounds.

Judge Wood accepted the challenge, obtained evidence against three retail outlets near the schoolhouse, and turned it over to Spalding County authorities. On February 21, the operators were arrested, the beer licenses revoked, and the places padlocked by the County officials, exactly one week after the "clean up or close up" program was launched.

This Committee really means "clean up or close up!"

How Can 'Extra Day' Be Used? Here Are Some Atlanta Answers

February Gives Everybody an Added 24 Hours
Today.

Today being the day, it was only natural yesterday that a thoughtful city editor would get the notion that a lot of important, or quotable, people should be asked the melancholy and philosophic question: "To what good purpose are you going to put this extra and wholly unearned day in your life?" The results:

Dr. M. L. Brittain, president, Georgia Tech: "I guess I'll be as busy as ever. Maybe, though, I can get my desk cleared off, if this really is an extra day in my life."

Fred B. Wilson, executive, Georgia Power Company: "You have to give serious thought to a thing like that. I think I'll spend the day giving it serious thought. After all, it's a serious matter."

Dr. James R. McCain, president, Agnes Scott College: "I'll spend the day trying to raise more money for the University Center. There's a lot to be done. Today may give me some time."

W. Paul Carpenter Sr., attorney, Healy building: "I expect to put in the day trying to figure out why people are like they are. Editors, particularly."

Dr. Harvey W. Cox, president, Emory University: "I haven't considered it an extra day so I don't expect to go through the routine schedule, which according to my book is a full day."

Ellis Arnall, attorney general: "My assistants and I have decided to use this extra day in February for some intensive work. It really would take us 10 or 12 days to catch up on our work, but we are going to try to make as much progress as possible in this one day. I suppose you could say we'll spend the day working, fasting and praying."

Braswell Dean, director, State Department of Public Welfare: "I'm going to devote this extra day in my life to the cause of some of our crippled children. We have a crippled children's division, and I am going to visit some of these youngsters during the day."

Jon Dean Steward, clerk, federal district court: "Well, let me see. I'm going to have to work. I think I'll devote Leap Year Day to thinking about taking a day off some other time."

Mayor Hartsfield: "I'm going to work my head or arm off as usual signing checks until the check-signing machine is bought. It won't be on the job tomorrow."

Councilman Howard Haire: "I'm going to give my boss an extra day's work."

Councilman J. Frank Beck: "I'm going to give myself a treat and see the Ballet Russe."

Councilman John A. White: "I'll just work as usual, and try to make a lot of money because I sure need it."

Mayor Pro Tem Frank H. Reynolds: "I'm getting at the age where I'm too old to do anything but work, and too much of that doesn't agree with me. It's fine golf weather, though."

Miss Estelle Tootle, of the treasurer's office: "The best way is just to put all your cards on the table, be frank, and have no beating around the bush."

FOREIGN RECRUITING DESCRIBED BY FLYER

At Least 20 Enrolled for Air Service in Europe,
He Says.

ROCKFORD, Ill., Feb. 28.—(AP) A young flyer who agreed to enlist, but changed his mind, told reporters today that at least 20 youths had been recruited on the west coast for war air service abroad.

Walter E. Palmer, of Los Angeles, reported that those enrolled were given railroad tickets, $5 for spending money and orders to proceed to the Wellington hotel in Toronto for further instructions.

Some of them, he added, had already reached Canada.

Complaints that youthful Americans had been signed up by foreign agents were referred to the state department yesterday by Federal Bureau of Investigation agents in Los Angeles.

smiles, shoot some of that stuff about how two can live as cheaply as one, then ask him why shouldn't we try that?"

Miss Margaret Smith, of the Department of Education: "I'd get it over with as quickly as possible, and he had better say, 'yes.'"

Miss Dot Bragg, also of the education department: "I wouldn't do it. Well, I might. If I did, I would be sure of his answer first."

Miss Geneva Howard, of the Board of Penal Corrections: "I would be smart enough to make him think he was proposing to me. I would read up on all the advice to the lovelorn, and then try to do up a special system of my own."

Mrs. Charles Gilmore, of the Board of Regents: "I would just tell him that time was a-wastin', and that if he waited too late he might not get married at all."

(Note: It must have worked swell. Mrs. Gilmore was married only three weeks ago.)

Miss Ferol Wilcox, of the Board of Regents: "I recommend looking up into his eyes and saying, 'Don't you think it would be romantic to be a leap year husband?'"

Miss Grace Cunningham, of the law department: "I'm sure I had rather have the proposal the other way around."

Miss Estelle Tootle, of the treasurer's office: "The best way is just to put all your cards on the table, be frank, and have no beating around the bush."

Herbert Hoover Jr. Uses Atom-Throwers To Find Oil

Regains Health and Also Finds New Philosophy of Life.

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE,
Associated Press Science Editor.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—(AP) A man may profit much from being forced to stop work two years with death the probable penalty for failure to rest completely.

That is the experience of Herbert Hoover Jr., who has just stepped into the limelight in the mining and scientific worlds with a new method of oil prospecting which he reported here to the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers.

He took time out for two years when United States Air Reserve Corps physicians told him he had tuberculosis. He finished that enforced rest five years ago.

Healthy Now.
Today, at 36, he is ruddy, extra-healthy looking, much resembling his father and very good-looking. He looks like an athlete, although he has no time for any sports.

The first direct profit he got out of the two years was a philosophy of life.

"I've noticed since," he said, "that others, who had to take similar rests, said they found the same benefits to their viewpoints."

Hoover's is a two-point philosophy, as far as he is willing to talk about it.

Point one is to "want above all things for my children to grow up as average American kids." He has two girls, two and a half years apart.

Point two is to be a useful citizen.

Bridging Gap.
In the five years since, Hoover Jr. has found his life vocation. It is bridging the gap between pure science in the laboratory and industry.

His best thrill comes from prowling around laboratories, seeing strange-looking, new apparatus there, of no known possible practical use, and figuring out how to put the robot to work.

In his report this week he bridged dramatically one of the biggest of all these scientific gaps. For a decade scientists have had an apparatus known as a mass spectrograph. It weighs atoms, then which there is no more unpractical work.

Hoover Jr. took this spectrograph into the laboratories of the United Geophysical Company, of Pasadena, Cal., his present home. He organized this company atoms, then which there is no more unpractical work.

The young concern is making money. It employs 200 or more scientists and technicians at the time. The main business is in the oil fields.

Detects Gases.
He and his associates adapted the scientific mass spectrograph, quickly and automatically to detect gases so minute in quantity that they may not even make a smell. That fact makes the mass spectrograph a true divining rod for locating oil. It is useful, too, for controlling automatic chemical processes.

The mass spectrograph is based on the fact that if two stones are thrown with the same velocity, the heavier one will travel farther. It throws atoms as if they were baseballs. They travel inside a curved vacuum tube, and in a magnetic field.

The magnetism makes them curve and the heavier ones curve in a wider circle than the lighter weights. The result, at the end of the curved vacuum tube, is separation of the atoms.

amazing sifter. As Weihs worked, he was dictating to one secretary his war memoirs, to another a speech, to a third a letter to the Pope. At the same time he was reading a newspaper.

When the sculptor pointed out that he couldn't see the sifter's face behind the paper, George called for another secretary to read it to him. The place was cluttered up with secretaries Mr. Weihs thought he was doing a group.

Another amazing one was the great Scottish author and explorer, Cunningham Graham, who insisted on riding a horse into Mr. Weihs' studio to sit for a study garbed in the costume of a South American gaucho.

King, Princes, Maharajahs and their daughters did one slim Indian Princess life size in silver), parliamentarians, and just plain rich folks, who could afford the $10,000 or so which Mr. Weihs charges for his work, have all sat for the amazing genius who thought he wanted to be a violin player.

Born in Vienna, he studied the violin until he was 18, modeling being his hobby. Then he won an international competition, and since then has been so busy doing busts and making money he hasn't thought of the violin since.

It's easy to see why the world's great are eager to sit for him. His work has life. The spirit breathes through the stone and bronze. His figures seem almost on the verge of speaking, breathing, laughing.

"I catch that which is within," he said. "Or that I try to do. There is no art in making a copy of a man's head in stone. The art is in making the man's soul shine out through his features."

TWO TRAINS CRASH, SIX PERSONS HURT
Local Collides With 'Spirit of St. Louis.'

ODENYON, Md., Feb. 28.—(AP) A local passenger train plowed into the rear of the Pennsylvania Railroad's crack "Spirit of St. Louis," a mile from here tonight, slightly injuring six persons.

Railroad officials said the baggage car of the express was telescoped. All of those injured were aboard the local, bound from Washington to Baltimore and way points.

J. H. Thompson, brakeman on the local, suffered rib fractures. The others—all passengers—suffered cuts and bruises.

Officials said the express had been stalled by a hot box and repairs were being made when the local crashed into it.

Traffic on the main line between Washington and Baltimore was disrupted for several hours.

TRAFFIC IN A SNARL WHILE WOMAN STRIPS
DALLAS, Feb. 28.—(AP)—A 25-year-old woman snarled traffic for blocks today by climbing atop a parked truck and taking off all her clothing while hundreds of persons looked on.

Shouting "I want to stay naked as long as I live," the woman fought a policeman, a physician and an ambulance driver before being subdued at a hospital.

Dr. Harry Wilson, of Emergency hospital, said she was drunk and insane.

A Private Rice Fitting Of New Rice Support

If you are ruptured and wear a truss, now is your opportunity to get a 30-day trial of a scientifically constructed Rupture Support "made up" to meet the needs of your particular and individual condition.

On Friday and Saturday, March 1 and 2, Rice Fitting Experts will be at the Henry Grady Hotel, Atlanta, Ga., to give free demonstrations and private trial fittings of a Support designed to comfortably hold any reducible rupture—large or small—no matter where located or what your work may be.

Backed by more than 50 years' experience and fitted by Experts with a thorough knowledge of what they are doing, the Modern Rice Support should prove to be a revelation to the most skeptical—to see if this is so. No binding, cutting or cramping, but comfortable, evenly directed pressure at just the right spot to keep bowel from escaping.

Thousands have reported entire satisfaction with the Rice Support, so why endure the burden of reducible rupture suffering if you can be free from it? Anyway, it will cost you nothing to come in and learn about Rice methods and the wonderful opportunity it offers. Just ask for the Rice Experts and they will do the rest.

REPUBLICANS HAIL RETURNS IN OHIO

Victory Tamed 'Continuation of Trend Toward G. O. P. Success.'

By The Associated Press.
Republicans read the Ohio election returns with obvious jubilation yesterday. Senator Taft, Republican, Ohio, said that the victory of J. Harry McGreggor, running for congress, showed a "continuation of the decisive trend toward Republican success in 1940."

Meanwhile in New Orleans, wholesale dismissals of dock board employees were reported in the wake of post-election developments which as yet are not wholly clarified. Approximately 700 dock board employees were reported to have received dismissal notices effective tomorrow.

In Illinois Vice President Garner's forces launched a state-wide campaign against President Roosevelt based on the third term issue. The Garner-for-President committee outlined plans to organize support for the Texan in his contest with the chief executive in the April 9 presidential preference primary.

A test of strength of Republican presidential candidates is assured in the Wisconsin primaries April 7. Two states of Republican national convention candidates, pledged to support Arthur H. Vandenberg, Michigan senator, and Thomas E. Dewey respectively, were filed today with the secretary of state.

Florida Escape, Free 19 Years, Is Caught Here

The law reached back 19 years yesterday and grabbed an Atlanta Negro "bug" suspect on a charge of escaping from a Florida prison camp in 1921.

Hurrie Thomas, 40, of 66 Ashby street, was arrested last week in a "bug" raid by city police. He paid a fine on a disorderly conduct charge and was released.

But he had been fingerprinted. Th prints were sent to the Washington FBI office. They tallied with those of the prisoner who escaped from Raiford while serving time on a robbery charge.

Tallahassee was notified. Raiford was sent to Atlanta to "hold him." Thomas was rearrested. Last night he was on his way back to Raiford, with H. H. Pledger, a guard.

The Bibles, printed in 83 foreign languages as well as English, went to private homes, hotels, hospitals and many institutions, and were provided either at low cost or free.

'NAVY TO GO AHEAD WITH PLANS', EDISON

Four 45,000-Ton Ships
Will Be Built Despite House Cut.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Secretary Edison said today that the navy was going ahead with preparations to build four 45,000-ton battleships despite the suggestion of a house committee that study be given first to the question of making them even larger.

Edison commented that the new battleships should be "ample for the time being at any rate to keep up with anything now being built abroad." He said the senate would be asked to restore the house cut, which reduced the navy's appropriation to $968,722,878.

SALLY FORTH Says:

Five Planets Guide Destinies Of Yesterday's Bridal Couples

• • • • • ACCORDING TO Alice Denton Jennings, that noted Atlanta astrologist who writes for The Atlanta Constitution, this is the most fortunate time in the world for young people to marry. She bases her statement upon the fact that Venus and Jupiter are in their most harmonious aspect in the parade of the planets across the south-west sky this evening.

When Ida Akers plighted her troth to Allen Morris and Kathrine Newman became the bride of William Wendt at yesterday's ceremonies, five scintillating planets guided their destinies. Mars, Saturn, Venus, Jupiter and Mercury are the five planets visible to the naked eye at this season, and are destined to govern the lives of these newlyweds.

Love is interpreted by Venus; financial matters are governed by Jupiter; Mars takes care of forceful characteristics; Saturn's influence lies in great ability; and the power of making quick and satisfactory decisions comes under the direction of Mercury.

Only once in 100 years does this heavenly phenomenon take place, and Ida and Allen and Kathrine and William chose wisely and well when they set the dates for their marriages in February, 1940.

For several days the planets have been seen in perfect formation very close together on the same side of the sun. But leap year evening is the time when they will be the clearest in the southwest sky.

• • • • • YESTERDAY'S bride, Mrs. Allen Morris, the former Ida Akers, added to her exquisite bridal array two heirloom ornaments. The dainty handkerchief ring gracing her slender finger formerly belonged to Ida's grandmother, the late Mrs. George E. King, and it has been worn by all the brides in the King family since that time. The fragile lace handkerchief attached to the ring belonged to the bride's grandmother Akers.

The antique pearl clips which caught Ida's Venetian lace veil to her blond tresses were heirloom gifts to her from Mrs. Dillon Akers, and, needless to say, they are among the new Mrs. Morris' most prized possessions.

• • • • • WHEN Mrs. Delos Hill returns this week from Mexico, she will have much of interest to relate about her trip. Some of the conversation will revolve around Mrs. R. C. Morrow, who is the missionary from North Avenue Presbyterian church and lives in Zitananico. She is the former Medora Askew, of Atlanta, and served blackberries, tomatoes and carrots from her Mexican garden when Mrs. Hill dined with Mrs. Morrow.

Orchids grow in great profusion in the vicinity of Mrs. Morrow's home, which is just a little Mrs. Friendly Weds Mr. Dorman in N.Y.

NEW YORK, N. Y., Feb. 28.—Mrs. Clark Howell Sr., of Atlanta, Ga., announces the marriage of her daughter, Mrs. Nancy Carr Friendly, to Franklin Webster Dorman, of Parsons, W. Va., the ceremony having been quietly solemnized today at the home of the bride's aunt, Mrs. E. C. Mattee, on Park avenue.

Dr. Ralph W. Sockman, of New York, read the marriage service which was witnessed only by immediate members of the bride couple's families.

over 50 miles from the famous Sulphur Springs.

• • • • • A NEWCOMER to Atlanta is George L. Chumbley, who is with his sister, Mrs. James P. Cheves, at her home on Shadowlawn avenue. He is a native of Richmond, Va., and belongs to distinguished and prominent families.

As the author of "Colonial Justice in Virginia," he has gained national recognition and the book is in its second printing at the moment.

To Atlantans who frequently visit Greenbrier White Sulphur Springs in West Virginia, Mr. Chumbley is easily identified as the great nephew of the late Colonel Joe Lane Stern, who for 50 years led all the Germans at the famous spa.

Mr. Chumbley graduated from The Citadel in Charleston, S. C., and the University of Richmond. His sister was Henrietta Chumbley before her marriage to Mr. Cheves, and graduated from Mary Baldwin College in Staunton, Va.

Present were Mesdames Fred Fletcher, M. R. Clements, J. W. Simmons, W. L. Randall, Zach Layfield and Misses Gladys Randall, Marguerite Holist, Ruth Layfield, and the honor guest and hostess.

Party To Honor Miss Dorothy Smith.

Mrs. Butler will be assisted by Mrs. C. W. Butler, Mrs. A. S. Allen and her sisters, Mrs. Bartow Fladger and Mrs. Ira Hardin.

Present will be the honor guest, Misses Anne Kirby, Edith Abrams, Charlotte Wilson, Eulalia Farr, Gwen Altman, Mesdames Paul C. Smith, Louis Enloe, Valentine McManus, E. O. Use of Chintz For Turbans, Coats Is New Style

By Sheila Graham.

HOLLYWOOD, Feb. 28.—Don't get Betty Field wrong in "Of Mice and Men." In real life she dresses simply and in good taste (the same thing). Before she left for her New York stage chore, I saw Betty lunching in the Paramount cafe and wearing an attractive getup. Her skirt was in moss green duveten, knee length, and with three front gores from the waist. Her beige duveten blouse had square shoulders, short puffed sleeves, zipper up the side. Her waistline fashioned a tan cowboy belt, studded with diamond-shaped nail heads. And around her neck—an unusual leather necklace.

Talking about belts—Bonita Granville perks up her beige wool sport dress with a belt in natural cowhide, with little golden cowbells around the lower edge. Fine for girls who want to be heard as well as seen.

I've heard of using lavish drapery material in rich brocade for evening gowns, but Olivia de Havilland's use of chintz is never than new. Olivia has had a bolero and turban made of chintz, showing three shades of brown and a sprinkling of blue. She's also planning to use light pastel chintz for a coat lined in a bright shade of taffeta, with a matching sailor and a large handbag.

Ann Rutherford's new dinner dress is fashioned of linen with a white background and tiny nosegays printed over the bodice and skirt. The gown has a voluminous skirt, gracefully flared, and a tufted separate jacket bodice of matching material with leg-of-mutton sleeves in three-quarter length. The waistline is whittled by the zipper that closes snugly up the front to a high neckline. The petite actress wears in her hair a cute bow of matching print and carries an evening bag in the same fabric.

Diana Lewis (Mrs. William Powell), who will be seen with Eddie Cantor in "Forty Little Mothers," gives a few tips on eye beauty. If you want your lashes to look thicker, brush them with mascara and apply the mascara over the powder. If you are striving for that look of depth in your eyes, brush up on the outer lashes and down on the inner corner. (It seems to have worked in Diana's case).

Binnie Barnes always buys clips and pins in pairs so that she may clip one to a lapel, hat or belt and one on her purse. Her latest shows a little diamond bee, poised on the edge of a diamond lily, sipping honey from topaz stamens. This went to lunch last week on the lapel of a moss green suit and matching envelope bag.

Seen at the recent Sportswear Parade of the Associated Apparel Manufacturers of Los Angeles... A bathing ensemble which combined light pink and iris (a purplish blue)—a satin latex swim suit, a shirt to wear over it, a short, full skirt, held in at the waist with latex, and matching shoes... Another bathing suit of silk jersey, cut on dressmaker lines. The trunk of the royal blue, the halter of lime yellow, the bolero of blue, and around the waist was a bright red silk jersey sash... A play ensemble of white pique, camisole bra, trunks adorned with three rows of deep ruffles. Over this was worn a fitted reversible beach coat in red and blue, piped with white terrycloth... A fitted street coat, the front in red, the back in blue... with a double-breasted effect accented with silver buttons... very military.

Sitting pretty can be applied with sincerity to Mrs. Dorothy Rickenbacker, who is pictured on the left in a pensive mood all ready and waiting for a tea or a tete-a-tete. She illustrates her smart attire the current emphasis on youth and chic, and is wearing one of the favorites of the season—a redingote suit. The soft and arresting shades of violet are used in her dress, a real silk print, the designs dancing in and out of the opening of the long full-length coat of violet wool. A wide violet suede belt nips in the slender waistline. The entire ensemble carries a tradition of quality. In typical movie star pose, and as pretty as any cinema character, is Mrs. Ruth Foster, who poses on the right during a rest period before she steps out on the fashion stage. Those buttons visible down the left side of her coat do their usual duty to inclose the model's shapely figure in a cocoa-colored woolen fitted and flared coat of an attractive costume suit. The dress of printed crepe is of cocoa and black to carry out the color motif of the ensemble. The belt is of pitch patent leather, as is the envelope bag featuring a copper corner for initials. Mrs. Foster is wearing a black straw braid model, a box-pleated pie plate shape with a back trim of taffeta. Her pitch patent pumps are made with elasticized faile paneling which eliminates gaping, and the open toes feature bows. Pitch patent is dark, but a fashionable note on the spring horizon, and is soaring into popularity. It is named for pitch black tar, in the event you are color blind! These black accessories give a sophisticated touch to spring street scenes—for an all-day act. Call Lillian Mae at The Constitution for further information on these models.

Woman's Quiz

Q. How long before a wedding should invitations be sent out?

A. Not earlier than four weeks, and not later than 15 days before the wedding day.

Q. Can you give me an effective poison for ridding a house of silverfish?

A. By taking advantage of their natural craving for starchy food, they can be poisoned by using a powder consisting of a mixture of 12 parts of sodium fluoride powder to 100 parts of wheat flour, or a thin paste made by boxing from one-half to three-fourths of an ounce of white arsenic with one pint of wheat flour and adding enough water to make a thin paste by boiling. The paste should be poured on small pieces of flexible cardboard or paper which can be rolled into cylinders with the paste on the inside. The powder or paste should be put in places where silverfish are found, as shelves, behind books, back of mantels, under washboards, and on the bottoms of drawers and in storage boxes. Being poisonous to humans, they could be put where young children will not be able to reach them.

MY DAY: Easter Seal Drive Aids Crippled Children

By Eleanor Roosevelt.

GOLDEN BEACH, Fla.—We were very busy yesterday morning getting Jimmy off to his plane. His friends, the Ned Brandons from Boston, came to see him and sat in the sun for a while, and then offered to drive him to the airport. I went up to talk to him while he packed and finally, very reluctantly saw him leave.

A little while later, Franklin Jr.'s wife, Ethel, called me up to say she had come down to be with her mother, sister and sister-in-law at the Boca Raton Club, and that they were driving over to the races and would stop to see me either on their way over or on their way home. I told her I would greet them warmly whenever they stopped, for I had no intention of leaving my own domain. It was nearly 6 o'clock when the young things turned up, all looking much too young and pretty to carry any responsibilities. We had a nice talk, and they thought I had picked out a nice place to hibernate. Ethel said that she knew that Franklin Jr. didn't have examinations staring him in the face just now, that I would have received word that they both wanted to come and stay!

The National Society for Crippled Children of the United States of America, which has its headquarters in Elyria, Ohio, sends me word that on the first of March they will open their annual Easter seal drive. This national society has state associations and the Easter seal drive helps to finance these state groups. They work on legislation upholding anything which will help to increase the state's responsibility for the cost, care and treatment of crippled children. They are most anxious to see federal aid extended for the education of physically handicapped children of all types. In 1937 it was estimated that a total of 1,873,231 handicapped children needed special education, and less than 10 per cent of that number were receiving it. At the same time that this society watches legislation the groups co-operate with social welfare agencies in making happier the lot of crippled children.

I mention this sale now instead of later, because while it extends through to Easter Sunday, I feel that many people awakened to the need will be willing to help and co-operate in making it a success.

Last night I read three stories about dogs by Alexander Woolcott, collected in a little book called "Verdun Belle." That is the name of one of these stories which the "Town Crier" read over the air. Everyone who likes dogs will enjoy these stories.

If you happen to be interested in the effect that schools can have on the growth of communities, I think you will enjoy reading Miss Elsie Clapp's book, "Community Schools in Action." She is a most interesting and unique person who did a remarkable piece of work in two different schools for the communities in which she lived.

The Hostess' Mood Can Make Or Break Success of Her Parties

By Caroline Chatfield.

A young bride recently went through the trying ordeal of entertaining her husband's big boss and his city-bred wife. She knew it was going to be a trying ordeal and she planned the tiniest detail of the party well ahead, got up the most elaborate menu she could contrive, borrowed everything the neighbors had to lend and bought extra china and glass for the great occasion. Then came the fatal day with fatal consequences.

The husband was disappointed at the way the party turned out and while he tried to be tactful in his criticism, the young wife was cut to the heart and swore she would leave town the next time the boss came to town. In the meantime she went to one of her mother's friends and unburdened her heart. "What was wrong?" she asked; "I gave that party everything I had but it wasn't enough."

After comforting the bride as best she could, the older woman said to her, "My dear, I'll give you three tried and tested rules for easy entertaining: First, entertain often enough to keep it from being an ordeal; second, entertain simply enough to keep it from being a strain; third, do your work and worrying before the guests arrive and then join them for a good time, and let the party take its natural course."

It's almost miraculous the way a woman's mood is communicated to her guests. She strikes the keynote of the party and if her note is off key, so is the party. When she's nervous and her mind is darting back and forth between the kitchen and dining room, her husband has no art to overcome the influence of her distress.

However hard he works, however clever he may be at small talk, serious talk, pryor tricks and party manners, he's smeared at the line of scrimmage by a wife that's not in the mood. Nine times out of ten when the wife is not in the mood it's because she's attempted something beyond her ability and she can't stand the strain. Sometimes it's a new dish that hasn't been tried out on the family. Sometimes it's a "ghost" servant that's not on to the ropes. Sometimes it's physical exhaustion from overwork on details that nobody takes note of.

In view of the fact that nothing contributes more to a husband's pride in his wife than being able to show her off as a graceful hostess to his friends and his bosses, it behooves every bride to master the art of entertaining. And she should remember that she can't master it by straining to keep up with the Joneses.

Chariot of the Law.

Members of the crash squad of the police department of Houston, Texas, wrote Lieutenant J. E. Murray a memorandum.

"Our car needs some real work done on it before it falls apart. The motor misses, has no pickup and no speed after it gets started. The springs seem to be flat and the shock absorbers must be entirely worn out. The two front door glasses are out of order and the braces back of the rear seat are broken loose and slap around like a load of junk."

"The light in the rear trunk is out and the night mechanic says it has to have a new switch assembly."

"Also the paint is bad."

The situation was remedied.

Doctor Prefers a Mystery Yarn For Entertainment

By Dr. William Brady.

If there were a scarcity of interesting and entertaining reading matter for children, youths or adults, literature that only entertains but educates, there might be some temptation for popular fakery. I say fakery here in order to draw a distinction. You see, I am a mystery addict. It would be a sad world if a fellow couldn't lay aside Clinical Parasitology or Vol. III of The War Years after several hours of study, get into his pajamas, light his pipe and relax for an hour or two with a good murder story—say once every two years or as often as really good murder yarns are published. I may be prejudiced, of course, but it seems to me that no reader with sufficient intelligence to read such a story is likely to be in the least deceived by the author's inventions. On the contrary, a considerable part of the entertainment or diversion the reader derives from a murder mystery is in detecting the twists of scientific or other facts the author has to make in order to build a plot or bring about a denouement.

Authors of best sellers sometimes become obsessed with the idea that they are actually great philosophers or teachers. Years ago such an author, with no mercenary motive of course, contributed an article to a popular magazine telling how he had taken the matter into his own hands when doctors told him he was "threatened with tuberculosis," migrated to the great southwest and taking a best-seller, hadn't he? And in the nature of things that qualified him to advise credulous young people in the early stage of tuberculosis how to recover. A considerable number of readers wrote to me at the time, seeking my approval of some such foolish adventure for many years after the doctors had made the equivocal diagnosis—"threatened with" a disease is a wretched guess, no matter how eminent the specialist who offers it in lieu of an honest opinion. Of course the author, seeking only a bit of mad money, could not know the tragic consequence a similar adventure might have for the average victim of incipient tuberculosis.

Sunshine and open air life is all to the good for well folk as it is for those "threatened" with or ill of tuberculosis.

But two other things, at least, are more essential for recovery, namely, the constant advice and care of a good doctor and scientific, therapeutic or physiological rest—which is quite different from what the layman regards as rest.

Now that true nature stories are entertaining and instructing children, instead of the horrid giant and dragon nursery tales of the past, a bonfire of all the literary fakery would probably help to preserve our sanity and morality.

5 Per Cent of Overweights Need Special Consideration

By Ida Jean Kain.

Ninety-five per cent of the overweighters overeat. They can get down to normal weight any time they please but sometimes they prefer obesity to the calorie subtraction.

But the five per cent whose overweight is due to some glandular disturbance have a far more difficult problem. They are the ones who really need help. One of them wrote recently:

"I weigh 256 pounds and I am only five feet four inches tall. Honestly, I don't overeat! I almost starve myself. I am desperate. This morning my little boy said to me, 'Mommy, I wish you weren't so fat. I wish you looked more like other boys' mommies.' There are many letters like that and they are from the overweighters who can really blame their troubles on their glands. To help those of you in this group, I interviewed a specialist in this field who believes that the problem is greater than that of all the 95 per cent put together."

The first thing anyone should do who cannot reduce by dieting, our doctor says, is to have a metabolism test. Then, if the test shows that the metabolic process is actually retarded, a specialist should be consulted. The glands are complex and it takes an expert to fathom the trouble. Ask your county medical society to recommend an endocrinologist. Or, if you live near a university hospital, you can seek advice there.

"But, Doctor," I said, "many of these people cannot afford a specialist—some of them cannot afford a metabolism test. What are they to do?"

"They should apply for treatment at the nearest clinic," he answered. "These clinics are a sometimes maintained by the cities, sometimes in connection with the university hospitals. Some of the finest doctors are on the staff of the clinics."

The specialist will prescribe the hormone or combination of hormones which your body lacks. This will regulate the metabolic process, making it possible for you to lose weight. Diet is also extremely important—even in the treatment of glandular overweight. You may be on a restricted diet for some months and it must contain the food elements essential to adequate nutrition.

If you are among this 5 per cent, you owe it to yourself and to your family to obtain treatment. Carrying 100 pounds of excess weight entails a strain on the blood vessels, heart, liver, kidneys and pancreas. In fact, there is constant overburdening of all the metabolic processes of the body. The large percentage of diabetes in overweight is accounted for by the failure of the pancreas to furnish enough insulin for the additional load.

All the people who gain weight easily cannot blame it on their glands. Tomorrow's article will be devoted to their problems.

Miss Akers and Mr. Morris Wed at Brilliant Ceremony

Arrayed in lustrous white duchess satin and exquisite Venetian lace, Miss Ida Martha Akers became the bride of L. Allen Morris at a brilliant ceremony solemnized last evening at 8:30 o'clock at North Avenue Presbyterian church.

Rev. Richard Orme Flinn officiated before an assemblage of prominent Atlantans and out-of-town guests, and muted strains of nuptial music were played by Miss Emeline Parmelee, organist.

Myriads of Easter lilies beautified the church, palms and woodwardia ferns forming a rich background for their stately loveliness. The side windows of the church were illuminated by white tapers burning in silver candelabra, to which were tied clusters of Easter lilies, and Grecian urns of the lilies flanked the altar on either side. Slender tapers arising from cathedral candelabra were placed at intervals down the aisle.

Charles McCallister, of New York, served as best man for the groom, and groomsmen were Russell Bellman, Robert K. Hage, of New York; Ivan Allen Jr., Charles Yates, Robert E. Martin, Frank Ridley, Julian Carr III and William Akers Jr.

Ushers were Dr. George Cook, of Tampa, Fla.; Fred A. Hoyt, Carson Sewell, Dr. Herbert Reynolds, Arthur Kitchings and Clarence Haverty.

Mrs. Frank Holt III, of Montgomery, Ala. was matron-of-honor.

Society Assembles At Athletic Club

A brilliant Washington birthday dinner-dance was held Saturday evening at the Atlanta Athletic Club, the guests being entertained with a floor show. C. W. Dodd had as his guest Dr. and Mrs. R. J. Norris, Mrs. A. J. Dodd and Miss Pat Norris. Dining together were Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Gramling, Mr. and Mrs. J. Bryce, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Kerr.

Another party included: Mr. and Mrs. J. H. McGinty, Miss Mary Bruel and Kenneth Fraser. Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Meredith Jr., Miss Myrtle Jackson, A. J. Jordan, of West Point, formed a party. Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Moran, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Welch, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Newton dined together. Another group included Mr. and Mrs. Toxey Whitaker, Mr. and Mrs. M. O'Sullivan, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas H. Kidd.

She presented a lovely picture wearing a model of flesh-colored silk marquisette featuring a voluminous skirt which billowed from the fragile lace bodice. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink sweetpeas centered with Wedgwood blue lilies and pale yellow tulips.

The bridesmaids included Mesdames Charles Sumner Jr., Julian Carr III, Stanley Holditch, of Jacksonville, Fla.; Mrs. William Schroder Jr., and Misses Anne Adkins, Sibylla Pringle, Sarah Lewis and Isabel Boykin. They were gowned in bouffant models of silk marquisette shading from flesh pink to a deep rose hue and fashioned with snug lace bodices, high necklines and brief puffed sleeves. Pink gerbera and pink sweetpeas centered with yellow tulips and Wedgwood blue lilies also formed their artistic bouquets.

The petite blond bride entered with her father, William Akers, by whom she was given in marriage. Her radiant beauty was enhanced by her Molyneux wedding gown of white duchess satin, the long close-fitting sleeves of which extended to form points over the wrists. Her veil of Venetian point applique was posed over illustrious tulle, and cascaded the length of the long fan-shaped satin train, the lace for the veil having been brought from Italy by the bride. Her only ornament was an antique diamond and pearl cross belonging to Miss May Haverty who loaned it for the auspicious occasion, and she carried a cascade bouquet of valley lilies and orchids.

After the ceremony the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Akers, entertained at an elaborate reception at the Piedmont Driving Club, several hundred guests having been invited to attend the Floor baskets of spring blossoms were massed to form a background for the receiving line, and music rendered by a popular orchestra drifted from the flower-bedecked balcony at the opposite end of the room.

Mrs. Akers wore for the occasion a Mainboucher model of aqua lace and marquisette accented by a shoulder cluster of pink orchids. The groom's mother was becomingly gowned in a Ben Reige model of dusty rose crepe fashioned with a close-fitting bodice, a V neckline, puffed sleeves and a diaphanous skirt. She wore a shoulder cluster of orchids.

Miss Carolyn Malone and Mrs. Dan Bowden Jr., of Jacksonville, Fla., kept the bride's book.

Silver candelabra holding white tapers graced the ends of the tables.

The heart-shaped bride's table was placed in a private dining room of the club, where an artistic arrangement of gardenias and valley lilies centered the pink satin cloth.

Miss Newman and Mr. Wendt Marry at St. Luke's Church

One of the most important weddings of the season took place yesterday afternoon at St. Luke's Episcopal church when Miss Katharine Ellis Newman became the bride of William Wendt, of New York city. The ceremony was performed at 5 o'clock by Rev. John Moore Walker, the rector, in the presence of a large and fashionable assemblage of relatives and friends.

Artistic arrangements of stately palms and ferns screened the choir stalls and baskets filled with Easter lilies were placed in front of the altar. The bride wore a long white gown with a high collar and long sleeves, and the groom wore a dark suit with a white shirt and tie.

Ushers were Dr. Phinizy Calhoun, Henry B. Tompkins, Albert E. Thornton, see Draper, Philip Alston Jr., J. Maxwell Couper Jr., Dr. Dan Elkin and James L. Dickey. Edward G. Johnson, of New York city, was best man for Mr. Wendt.

Miss Elizabeth Patterson, of Richmond, Va., first cousin of the bride, was maid of honor, and Miss Jane McKenzie, another first cousin of the bride, was junior bridesmaid. They were gowned in costumes made of pink tulle featuring bouffant skirts and form-fitting bodices with square necklines and short puffed sleeves. Their matching hats of pink tulle were trimmed with blue velvet ribbon bows tied at the back of the hats. They carried bouquets of pastel-shaded flowers in which pink and blue flowers predominated.

Beautiful Brunet Bride.

The beautiful brunet bride was given in marriage by her father, Henry Alexander Newman of Atlanta and New York city, with whom she entered the church. Her hair was enhanced by her white satin wedding gown fashioned on princess lines. The bodice was made with a square neckline and the long sleeves were trimmed with self-covered buttons. The skirt extended into a long and graceful train, the real lace veil was fastened to her hair with a real lace coronet, and she wore a strand of pearls around her neck. She carried a bouquet of calla lilies tied with white satin ribbon.

The priceless rose point lace veil was worn by the mother of the bride on her wedding day. A small reception at the Piedmont Driving Club after the ceremony was given by Mrs. Newman for members of the Newman-Wendt bridal party and immediate relatives of the bride and groom.

Florida Wedding Trip.

Mr. Wendt and his bride departed on a motor trip to Florida, and afterward they will reside in New York city. The bride traveled in a dark blue wool suit worn with a white silk blouse, the short jacket being trimmed with military brass buttons. Her dark blue hat was trimmed with two gold nails and she wore matching accessories and lavender orchids.

Leap Year Babies Celebrate Four Birthdays at Once Today

Many Georgians Are Planning To Observe Rare Date.

(Pictures on Page 30)

Today is Leap Year Day, when those who have them celebrate their birthdays for the first time in four years.

Robert Louis Stevenson once gave his birthday to a little girl who was born on Christmas—but what about the folks who are born on that extra day tacked on the end of February once every four years?

If celebrating a birthday means anything, some thing ought to be arranged for the Leap Year Day babies.

Some of the more enterprising persons who were born on February 29 have arranged to use the birthday of some member of their family, and some simply demand just four times as many gifts when their birthday finally does roll around.

Missed Many Birthdays.

Mrs. Connie B. Crief, of Fender, Ga., is celebrating her 18th birthday today. She was born in 1864. Bob Crowe, Barbara Lou Broadwell and Francis Sullivan, all of Atlanta, are enjoying the first birthday they've ever had. They are all four years old today. Helen Moodie, Arben Moreland and Lois Butler McMullin, of Atlanta, reach their second birthday today. They are eight years old. Thelma Jackson, with three candles on her cake today, is 12 years old.

Other Leap Year Day birthday celebrators are four-year-old Robert W. Benton, of Pembroke, Ga.; 36-year-old Gordon Wilder, Halcyondale, Ga.; Warren Sullivan, of Camack, Ga., celebrating his eighth birthday; Osborne Mack Browns, of Washington, Ga., celebrating his 12th birthday at the age of 48; Alice Jean Caswell, of Atlanta, who is 12 years old; Joy Huggins, Atlanta, four years old; and Mildred Hartness, 12 years old.

There is a good reason why calendar makers double-count the persons born on February 29, and cheated them out of three out of every four birthdays.

Keeps Up With Sun.

The calendar has to keep up with the sun, and it takes an extra day once every four years to do it.

But occasionally even the fourth year in the succession of years isn't a Leap Year. This occurs, as 1900, when the century year is not exactly divisible by 400. George W. Minding, meteorologist, says this Leap Year system will keep the calendar rocking along fairly even with the sun for the next several thousand years.

So there's no need to worry just yet about our present system of 365 1/4 days in a year, except Leap Year, which has 366.

AUTO EMPLOYEES TO VOTE SECRETLY

Union Elections Ordered at General Motors Plants, Including Atlanta.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 28.—(UP)

The National Labor Relations Board tonight ordered secret ballot elections "as soon as practicable" among approximately 125,000 production and maintenance employees at 59 plants of General Motors Corporation in 11 states.

The board gave formal approval to a stipulation agreement for the election, which was signed February 13 by the corporation, the CIO and AFL factions of the United Automobile Workers of America, two locals of the International Association of Machinists (IAM), and the Pattern Makers' League of North America (AFL).

Exact time of the election was left to NLRB Regional Director Frank H. Bowen at Detroit.

Workers will take part in the election. Each plant will vote separately, but General Motors agreed that its industrial relations staff will negotiate with the union "for those plants for which the international union has been certified as the exclusive bargaining agency."

Three different types of elections will be conducted, with the UAW-CIO contesting with one of the three AFL unions in each of them.

These votes will be taken: Production and maintenance employees will choose between the UAW-CIO and either the UAW or the AFL in the Atlanta Chevrolet motors division and the Fisher body plants in Atlanta.

Finns' Technique in Trapping Reds Explained to White by Cameraman

After Being Cut Off, Russians Are Kept Awake by Grenades.

"You see, the Russians really believed their own stuff at first—"

"The second thing that did it was skis. You've got to be born on them like these Laps and Finns are, to be any good. They get around on them like fish with fins."

Grand.

The golden west of frontier days, brought to life in technicolor, comes to screen life in "Northwest Passage," starring Spencer Tracy, Robert Young, and Ruth Hussey, supported by Walter Brennan, at Loew's Grand opening today.

Taken from Book One (Rogers' Rangers) of the novel, "Northwest Passage" brings Kenneth Roberts' drama of the savage frontier to vivid reality, with a story of courageous living or to die, of pretty women, and of Indians.

The screen story was written by Laurence Stallings and Talbot Jennings. It was produced by Hunt Stromberg and directed by King Vidor.

Cameo.

Johnny Mack Brown gallops into the top bracket of western stars in his new film, "Oklahoma Frontier," with Bob Baker and Fuzzy Knight, Friday and Saturday at the Cameo theater. Brown portrays the United States marshal, who kills an acquaintance in line of duty, then resigns to join pioneers in the great Oklahoma land rush.

together with the stage show, "French Varieties of 1940."

Lynn Bari, Richard Clarke, Harold Huber, C. Henry Gordon, and a host of others, are featured in the cast with Sidney Toler, who has the detective's role.

"French Varieties," on the stage starting Sunday, is said to have one of the most talented lines of girls ever brought south with a unit.

"Double Alibi," Capitol's current screen offering, starring Wayne Morris, Margaret Lindsay and William Gargan, continues through Saturday.

Rialto.

Rita Heyworth, one of the real screen beauties, comes close to breaking up Dagwood Bumstead's happy home in the latest Blondie feature comedy, "Blondie on a Budget," which opens a week's engagement at the Rialto theater tomorrow.

Rita plays the part of an old school friend of Dagwood, Blondie's new fur coat, costing $200. Dagwood wants to join an exclusive club, initiation fee $200. There is a quarrel.

Then Dagwood is repentant. He decides to buy the coat for Blondie as a surprise and asks Rita to help select it. Blondie sees them in the store together, and thinks Dagwood is buying the coat—he can't afford for her—for Rita. Fireworks!

Penny Singleton again is cast as Blondie's rival, a girl named Dagwood, and Larry Sims as Baby Dump-ling.

Fox.

Andy Hardy gets tangled up with three girls, not to mention his steady trouble, Polly (Ann Rutherford) in the newest Hardy family picture, "Judge Hardy and Son," which opens a week's run at the Fox theater tomorrow.

In the role of Andy, Mickey romps in typical fashion, getting into debt when he thinks he's certain to win an essay prize of $50, only to discover when kindly Judge Hardy (Lewis Stone) points it out, that the prize money goes to a girl, not to a boy. Then he attempts to sell his essay to one of the girls for submission.

Tragedy hovers over the family throughout this film, with Mother Hardy about to die. It develops Andy into a man, and leads to his giving the old Judge a man-to-man talk instead of taking one. All the old cast is present, with many new additions such as Martha O'Driscoll, June Preisser, Margaret Early (all new sweethearts of Andy), Marie Ouspenskaya, and others.

L. S. U., Tulane Open S. E. C. Tourney Today at Knoxville

All in the Game

—by Jack Troy

Loyalty It is not speaking out of school to report that Georgia today has the same line coach, Ears Whitworth, because Whit chose to refuse a good offer from another school.

Whitworth turned down an attractive offer to coach the line at Rice Institute, Jess Neely's new school, before Del Morgan, of Auburn, was given the job.

The story of the refusal didn't originate with Whitworth, but the source is unquestioned. Whit didn't try to deny it.

Questioned as to his reason for choosing to remain at Georgia, Whit simply said—

"My wife and I both like it here at Athens. The associations here are very pleasant. That's the story."

It is the story, too, of Georgia's current coaching setup. Harmony reigns. The present staff goes together like honey and syrup, ham and eggs, cornbread and polikker, and so on.

"We like it here at Athens. . . ."

The story of Ears Whitworth rings with the cheerful notes of the chapel bell when the news has arrived of another Bulldog victory in football.

"The associations here are very pleasant. . . ."

Taking Grant It is the better part of a certainty that Porter Grant, the old Auburn Tiger, is no relation to the Grant that took Richmond.

Because one sees by a little item in the paper that Auburn has taken Grant . . . bodily.

Porter, whose curly hair and ready smile belie his Tigerish nature, now holds the following positions at the Loveliest Village—

Business manager of the athletic department.
Football end coach.
Varsity baseball coach.
Alumni secretary.

The only reason they have been able to keep Grant out of the presidential chair of the popular institution is the fact—or at least it's a good rumor—that Dr. L. N. Duncan keeps his office under lock and key.

There's another story going the rounds among Grant intimates, too. That one concerns the possibility that he might take in washing.

After all, he's still got some time on his hands.

Ferdinand It seems there were TWO Chinamen (possibly Confucius and his brother) whacking around a golf course. . . . The game was new to them and one of them, finally reaching the green, pitched over it. . . . Then he pitched back across. . . . Coming back once more, the ball struck the flag and dropped into the cup. . . . "Look what I've done!" he yelled in English. . . . "Yes," his partner replied, "You're in a h—l of a fix now!" . . . H. M. VAN DEVENDER takes full discredit for that story. . . . "Country boy goes to the big leagues," probably will be the subject matter for the series of pictures Life photographer has taken of JOHN RUCKER at Alpharetta. . . . One annual story that never misses the local prints, and also one that is unvarying, is Sir Richard NIEHAUS' prediction that the Crackers will finish one-two in the Southern league race. . . . The annual prediction of Niehaus started back in 1935 and only twice have the Crackers finished lower than the club trainer said they would. . . . Ears WHITWORTH followed Connie Ryan a couple of years before he finally got the boy for L. S. U. . . . There'll be less golf at the Crackers' Savannah camp again this season. . . . It may not be a case of all work and no play, but the emphasis will be placed on work because of the extreme youth of the Cracker squad as a whole. . . . Del BAKER, Tiger manager, says Rudy YORK performs like a ballet dancer at first base. . . . "I'm surprised how good Rudy is at first base. . . . He is a big league first-sacker right now." . . . Took Detroit a long time to realize it was no accident Rudy was voted the most valuable player in the Texas league and American Association two years in a row. . . . He was a first baseman then.

BULLDOGS AMONG FAVORITES, MEET AUBURN TIGERS

Tech Faces Stiff Foe in First-Round Bout With 2d-Seeded Volunteers.

By JOHNNY BRADBERRY.

KNOXVILLE, Tenn., Feb. 28.—Even before many of you read this, firing in the seventh annual Southeastern conference basketball tournament will be resounding around the Smoky mountains as 12 of Dixie's best quintets start the most wide-open meet in history.

The old rivals of the Louisiana Bayous, Tulane and L. S. U., will start activities at 8:30 tomorrow morning and before midnight only four of the 12 teams will be left.

Your guess as to which four they will be is as good as any, but according to seedings, Alabama and Georgia should meet in the upper bracket semi-finals and Tennessee and Kentucky in the lower.

Eight games are scheduled the first day, three in the morning, two in the afternoon and three at night.

Georgia's two entries, Georgia Tech and Georgia, face stiff competition in the opening round and, should they reach the second, it will be much stiffer.

JACKETS MEET VOLS.

The Yellow Jackets are given little chance for an extended stay here because they must tackle Tennessee's second-seeded Vols in the first round at 11 o'clock. If by a miracle the Techs win they will have to take on Florida, who drew a first round bye, at 8:15 tomorrow night.

Georgia's third-ranked Bulldogs have an easier row to hoe and seem to have more tools to do it with. Losers only four times in 21 games this season, Elmer Lampe's five will tackle Auburn Tigers in the second game of the tournament at 9:45.

Should the Bulldogs win, they will face the high-seeded Mississippi team at 7 o'clock. The Rebels drew a first round bye.

The draw seems to favor the top-seeded Alabama quintet and Kentucky, the defending champion, seeded fourth.

Both draw first-round byes and will be fresh as college freshmen for second round bouts against teams which have already played games.

In looking around for possible dark horses, most fans are stringing along with Florida's fast-finishing Gators and Mississippi State's potent scoring machine. There is a tendency on the part of many people here to overlook Kentucky for the crown because of the Wildcat's mediocre record. However, with the spotlight on other teams, the Cats, boasting strong reserves, may find this to be their spot.

LEWIS TECH HOPE.

Coach Roy Mundorf, of Tech, is depending on Guard Carlton Lewis to give the Jackets what chance they have against Tennessee. Only a sophomore, Lewis is the second leading scorer in the conference and a polished all-around player. Charlie Burroughs, Jim Hughes, Captain Walter Haymans and Boneyard Johnson will complete the Tech starting five. Georgia's five veteran performers and little reserve strength, will depend on her starting team in all games. Dan Kirkland and Roy Chatham, both within the first ten scoring leaders, will lead the defense. Captain Cecil Kelly, Alex McCaskill and Joe Killian will complete the starting five against Auburn.

Should the Bulldogs win, they will have to cope with Mississippi's Burnell Egger, leading scorer in the league, in the second round. Egger has averaged nearly 16 points a game this season.

The advance sale of tickets has been booming, presaging a financial success for the meet.

Officials will be Bowser Chest, of Nashville; Melvin Laney, of Birmingham; and Jermain Jackson, of Murfreesboro, Tenn.

Here are the pairings for the first two rounds. Time is central standard:

UPPER BRACKET.
First Round.
Alabama vs. Tech, 8:30 a. m.
Tulane vs. L. S. U., 9:45 a. m.
Georgia vs. Auburn, 9:45 a. m.
Mississippi vs. Tech, 11 a. m.
Second Round.
Alabama vs. Tulane-L. S. U. winner, 3:45 p. m.
Mississippi vs. Georgia-Auburn winner, 7 p. m.
LOWER BRACKET.
First Round.
Kentucky vs. By, 8:30 a. m.
Vanderbilt vs. Miss. State, 2:30 p. m.
Florida vs. Tech, 11 a. m.
Tennessee vs. Georgia Tech, 11 a. m.
Second Round.
Kentucky vs. Vanderbilt-Miss. State winner, 9:30 p. m.

By CHARLIE ROBERTS.

With the G. I. A. A. cage meet today in Columbus, 14 members in the North Georgia Interscholastic conference field are chafing at the bit and rarin' to storm the barrier in their own meet which begins this afternoon at the Fulton High gym here.

Twelve quintets will undergo their baptism of opening-day fire tomorrow, with three set to set for the afternoon session, beginning at 2:30 with Griffin and Fulton as opponents, and three more carded that night, with Marietta and Gainesville locking horns in the 7 o'clock curtain raiser.

West Fulton tackles Druid Hills at 2:30, and the Elberton-LaGrange tussle will terminate the afternoon session. Russell's Wildcats, the defending titlists, will WILLIAMS REPORTS EARLY.

SARASOTA, Fla., Feb. 28.—Manager Joe Cronin and a handful of early Red Sox players arrived today for the first formal workout for Friday.

Although he was not under obligations to report until next week, Ted Williams, the sophomore outfield star, will arrive here tomorrow with a party that entrained at Boston this morning. Cronin said he intended to give Williams an extra week's drilling on fielding grounders, which gave him a bit of trouble last season.

STENGEL WELCOMES REGULARS.

BRADENTON, Fla., Feb. 28.—Manager Casey Stengel welcomed his first batch of Boston Bees regulars into camp today and told one and all that serious training would start tomorrow morning. Before joining the welcoming committee at the railroad station, Stengel put his rookie squad through another practice game. He appeared greatly impressed by the work that has been accomplished by his youngsters and he predicted that at least four of them would help the club.

Stengel will have one of the largest squads to handle since he took over the Bees, and he has planned double workouts daily for the first week or so.

SIMMONS STILL HITS.

ANAHEIM, Cal., Feb. 28.—While the younger players stand around admiringly, Hank Simmons is slugging out a lot of solid line drives in the Athletics' training camp.

"Gee, he's great," said Second Baseman Benny McVey. "Look at that swing." Manager Connie Mack expects Simmons to help with the younger players by doing his share in the field and at the plate.

McVey, who turned up with a sore arm yesterday, said the pain had eased today.

INDIANS' INITIAL DRILL.

FORT MYERS, Fla., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Manager Oscar Vitt led a squad of 27 Cleveland Indians, mainly battersmen, through their first spring workout today. Of 19 pitchers on the Tribe's roster, the only absentees were Johnny Allen and Willis Hudlin, still unsigned, and Johnny Broaca, who recently agreed to terms after holding back several weeks. Catcher Frankie Pollak, another holdout, also was missing.

Vitt turned over to Coach Luke Sewell the job of teaching control to two young infielders, Johnny Humphries and Bill Zober. The Tribe's chief credits Sewell with the improvement last season.

Shootin'

By Al Sharp

Old Sol had a broad smile on his face and so did the golfers yesterday as they took off their mittens and fleece-lined coats to battle Mr. Par.

The parade down the fairways began early and before visits to Candler Park, Druid Hills and Inglecliff could be completed the courses were filling up.

Out at Druid Hills, the first stop on this second orientation tour, Pro Harry Stephens was on the course, but his son, Bill, was in the shop, with the doors wide open, enjoying "the third pretty day of the year."

The conversation led to young golfers and a story.

"You don't know Joe Sewell, runner-up in the City Junior tournament last year? Well, he's a big fellow for his age—14, I believe. He's got a beautiful swing and had believed he'd make a swell golfer if he ever makes up his mind to stick with the game."

"Joe ordered some new woods. He lives just across the road, and every day for almost a month, Joe came over to see if the clubs he'd come in. They were of a popular make and the factory just couldn't fill the order in a hurry."

"Well, to make a long story a little shorter, the clubs got here about a week ago. So did the mumps. And Joe has been at home ill ever since. With the sun beari—down as it is now, they'll have a tough time keeping Joe off the golf course."

The 32-member Candler Park Women's Golf Association was holding its first weekly tournament. Miss Louise Cagle, who has been ill with the flu, was sticking close to the clubhouse, but she was eager to get out for an afternoon round.

A foursome, including Mrs. W. D. Tumlins, president of the Atlanta Women's Golf Association, and Mrs. A. J. Kaiser, the Candler organization's president, passed the turn.

The Atlanta association will start the season March 11-13. Miss Cagle said, playing a 54-hole ring tournament at East Lake No. 2 course.

Pro Teddy Hayes was moaning about two bursters at his shop within a month, but the nice weather made him forget those experiences. "Anyway," he said, "it won't happen again, because I'm earling everything home with me at night."

Willie Livingston, son of Pro Jimmy, was on hand at Inglecliff. "The golfers haven't started coming out yet," Willie said, "but the way the sun is shining should bring 'em this afternoon."

Sunday Amateurs Will Meet Tonight

The Spalding Sunday amateur baseball teams will hold a "managers' meeting" tonight at 7:30 o'clock at league headquarters, 737 Spring street, N. W.

Three leagues have been formed and a fourth will be lined up at this meeting.

Mrs. Bailey Takes Candler Park Meet

In the regular one-day tournament yesterday at Candler park, Mrs. M. K. Bailey with low net score of 73 won first prize. Mrs. Mark Larned won the prize for best putter with 28 putts on the 18 holes.

BOB CHIPMAN, BURGESS GIVEN GOOD CHANCES

Second Base, However, Is Still Club's Big Problem.

By JACK TROY.

The Crackers have two chances to come up with a good left-handed pitcher this season.

One chance, not too remote, is that Clyde Smoll will be available after the Phillies look at him in spring training. Smoll notoriously is a slow starter and Doc Prothro may not give him the time he needs to get started.

And it is not very likely that a pitcher the Phillies turned down would be claimed on waivers by a Double A club. The Crackers have a chance to get Smoll back. A fair chance.

The other opportunity presented for a left-hander who can win is for Manager Paul Richards to develop either Bob Chipman or Charley Burgess. Burgess was a Savannah ace last year. Chipman pitched both for Savannah and Greenwood.

Richards said yesterday, as he prepared to leave for a couple of days fishing in Florida before going on to the Savannah camp, that "we'll spend a lot of time trying to develop the two boys we've got. Burgess, from all I hear, is a real prospect."

"I think we have a chance to get Smoll back. I'm sure if he starts out as he has done for the last several years that he won't stay long with Philadelphia. And chances are none of the Double A clubs would pay the waiver price."

"But we can't bank too strongly on getting him back."

"So Burgess or Chipman may make the grade. I'd like to have one dependable left-hander around. We did all right when we had Sunkel and Smoll."

"Thinking about Smoll is that he may start out strong this year. He had been accustomed to playing basketball each winter to stay in shape. That may have hurt him. I don't think basketball is good for a ball player. And if Smoll cut out the basketball last winter he may get off to a faster start and the Phils might keep him," Richards opined.

Second Base Still Problem

Richards heads in the general direction of Savannah with second base still pretty much of a problem. Connie Ryan is untied. He has had only a year of freshman baseball at L. S. U. and a season of semi-pro ball in North Carolina.

At Rubeling, of course, had a great deal more experience. So did Stan Sperry.

Ryan really is the only second baseman listed. The Crackers are going to camp with only one set of infielders that can expect to make the grade.

But, so far as Ryan is concerned, if the boy shows he can make a double play, he will be an improvement on anything the Crackers have had in a long time. The club was extremely short on twin killings last year.

The year before, the same situation existed. Several players had a shot at second, including Richards. At one time and another, Peters and Chatham also played the bag.

It may be that Ryan can make a double play. If so, he's what the Cracker club really needs. Alf Anderson, his keystone mate, is pretty proficient both at starting and finishing at it.

Oklahoma Gridder Dies in Car Crash

BOLEY, La., Feb. 28.—(AP)—Justin Bowers, 21, star tackle on the University of Oklahoma football team, was killed today while asleep in the rear seat of an automobile which struck a culvert.

Bowers played on Oklahoma's Big Six champion 1938 eleven and on last season's team which went undefeated until the last two games.

Jack Steele, 20, a sophomore fullback, who drove the car, escaped with bruises.

Monroe Aggies Beat Boys' High, 40-36; Lanier Swamps Marist in G.I.A.A. Meet

SAVANNAH WINS OVER G.M.A., 36-32; TYPISTS BEATEN

Tech High Battles Poets Tonight in Second Round.

COLUMBUS, Ga., Feb. 28.—(AP) Featuring gruelling tests for Savannah High and Monroe Aggies, favorites survived in the opening round here today and tonight of the Georgia Interscholastic Athletic Association basketball tournament.

Lanier's High school's defending champions blasted Marist College from the running, 72-17. Columbus High, another seeded team, eliminated Commercial High, of Atlanta, 59-26.

In the two most exciting struggles of the opening round, the Monroe Aggies barely nosed out Boys' High, of Atlanta, 40-36. Savannah High found trouble disposing of Georgia Military Academy, of College Park, 36 to 32, in a game tonight that saw the lead constantly changing hands.

The Poets of Coach Selby Buck will battle Tech High school in the top bracket Thursday night at 7 o'clock in the feature contest of the second round. Columbus will encounter Benedictine College in a lower-bracket game. The Crimsons passed and the Smithies moved through the first round on byes.

Other battles scheduled for the second round are the Richmond Monroe lower-bracket game tomorrow afternoon and the Jordan-Savannah upper-division contest tomorrow night.

Two angling centers, both ranging from 6 to 10 feet, set the pace for individual performances in the opening round. Lanky Joe Murrow, of Macon, fired 22 points through the hoops in shortly more than two periods he was in the game. Captain Jim Homer, of Columbus, hit the cords for 26 points, seeing service most of the route.

After trailing 21-17 at half-time in a game that saw the lead see-saw constantly, Savannah broke away in the third period. Led by Harry Bergman, the Blue Jackets put on a surge that sent them out in front, 26-23, at the end of the period. Bergman continued his sharpshooting in the fourth period, ringing up a total of 21 points.

The Monroe-Boys' High struggle developed into a thriller with a belated rally by the Purple Hurricanes falling short. Captain Asher Edelstein sparked the drive, ringing up five field goals in the first half, but Monroe's Chuck Clark and Jake Lance caged 14 points each to prove their superiority. Score at the half was 17-16, Boys' High.

Man Mountain Dean recalls Strange Experience in the Garden.

By THAD HOLT.

Man Mountain Dean, leading citizen of Norcross, Ga., movie actor, farmer and politician, skeptically dumped his 350 pounds upon a stool in the dressing room at the Atlanta theater, and in his high, Andy Devine voice related a few of the experiences which for the past 15 years have helped to make him a box office attraction second only to Jim Lindes.

"I guess," said the former Miami policeman, whose real name is Frank Leavitt, "I'm the only man in history to lose a match he didn't wrestle."

There was a shifting of feet. Man Mountain's audience leaned forward in its chairs. Dick Raines pulled on his trunk, and cocked a cauliflower ear toward the bearded giant from Norcross.

"It was in the Garden, Madison Square Garden," reflected Man Mountain, who once wrestled in New York one night and San Francisco the next.

"I was coming into the ring for my match with Roland Kirchmeyer," Kirchmeyer, among those present, nodded assent.

"When I started to climb into the ring, Joe Savoldi, the old Notre Dame star, was coming out. He looked at me like he wanted to spit into my eye and then he called me a Ku Klux."

"Well, I let him have one with everything I had behind it. Savoldi shot over backwards and under I went a feller named Dayton, who was sports editor of the Sun. Dayton's face was gashed pretty badly and for a long time I was afraid it was going to cost me some money."

"Anyway, Kirchmeyer and I went into our corners and were waiting to be announced when the referee came out, raised Kirchmeyer's hand and disqualified me. I howled until the rafters shook, but it didn't do any good. I had lost a match and I hadn't even rassed."

OFF TO CAMP—First departure to the training camps, from Atlanta, is pictured above. Manager Paul Richards will have a couple of days fishing before he goes to Savannah, but John Rucker joins the Giants at Winter Haven, Fla., tomorrow. Uncle Nap Rucker, Brooklyn scout, is accompanying John.

Kalb and Scruggs, with 14 and 12 points respectively, sparked the Fulton boys' victory, with Mote shooting 11 for Hapeville. Gordon led the winning girls scorers with 10, being closely followed by White and Stegall, of Hapeville, with nine each.

Johnny Rucker Is Given Workout by Cameraman

Young Outfielder, His Uncle Nap and Paul Richards Head for Florida.

By JACK TROY.

A photographer from Life Magazine made history at Alpharetta yesterday. He is the first being able to slow John Rucker down to a walk.

"That fellow must have made 10,000 pictures from early morning until late afternoon," declared the young Giant outfielder as he prepared to leave with Uncle Nap and Paul Richards for Florida.

Manager Richards will ride as far south as Fernandina, Fla., where he will spend a couple of days fishing. Nap and John will continue to the Giants' camp at Winter Haven, Fla. Young Rucker is due to report Friday.

"I never had any idea a photographer could put you through so many things," explained John. "It really was worse than a workout. The fellow got me down. I'll have to spend tomorrow resting so I can be ready to start out fresh with the Giants."

It may be a little unusual for Nap Rucker, Brooklyn scout, to be going into the camp of the en-

SEES HIS HORSE WIN, THEN DIES

MIAMI, Fla., Feb. 28.—(P)—De Witt Page, 70, New England industrialist and racing stable owner, was fatally stricken with a heart filly, Maemere, win the featured attack today after watching his event at Hialeah park.

Page was president of the New Depasture Manufacturing Company, of Bristol, Conn.; vice president of General Motors, and owner of Maemere Farm stables, one of the most pretentious in the country.

He named his stable in honor of his wife, Mae, "who also was known as 'Mae,' French for mother. The name of each of his horses was compounded with 'Mae.' Mrs. Page sat beside her husband when he was stricken. She became hysterical.

Page was joyful when Maemere rushed to victory in the three-furlong juvenile feature, winning by a nose over Double Call and a neck over Red Mantilla.

He cheered the gallant filly, and, in high spirits, settled back in his clubhouse box to watch two more races. Just after the seventh, he collapsed without advance indication of illness. Removed to the first-aid room under the grandstand, he died without regaining consciousness.

Being a Dodger scout and, at the same time pulling for his nephew to be a Giant star, sort of puts Nap in the middle. But he's been in the middle before. And if John makes the grade, it really won't matter.

Incidentally, the photographer from Life also wore Paul Richards out yesterday. Paul was supposed to meet the Ruckers at noon. They finally showed up at the ball park at 5 o'clock.

... FIGHT FOR LOVE ...

Star Goes to the Yacht Harbor To See The Boat. Milton Finds Her There

By SYLVIA TAYLOR.

SYNOPSIS. Star Bright's mother, divorced when Star was a child, constantly takes of her days and her nights. She is a mysterious about driving a truck at night. Star makes no friends as she cannot entertain anybody at home. When she graduates from high school her stepmother's teacher sends her to Nina Lambert, novelist, who wants a secretary to live with her. Nina's son Bob falls in love with Star and when he plans an early marriage, Nina has Star bring her mother for dinner and purposely serves too much champagne. Star feels disgraced by Mamie's conduct and through Bob's assures her she leaves secretly. She fails to get a job, Mamie refuses to help her and she is tempted to leap from a yacht harbor pier. Milton Wood, magazine business manager and a friend of Nina, stops her, gives her a job and she so idealizes him that it is a shock when she learns he is married. Joe is killed by racketeers and Star must support Mamie. Wood makes Star his secretary. She sees Wood's beautiful wife Jennifer in a cafe with a furtive-eyed man and when she sees Jennifer leaving this man's apartment across the hall from Mamie's, Mrs. Wood tries to buy her silence with a gift of money. Star refuses it and admits she loves Milton. He dines one night with Star when Jennifer goes to Europe, then stops suddenly, blaming himself that they have come to love each other. Nina and Bob return from Europe and Bob won't take "no" when Star says she loves somebody else. Nina blames herself. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

INSTALLMENT XXVII.

Star did not reply. She was in no mood for conversation. But she had taken a bath and changed to one of the light frocks Nina liked for her to wear in the evening. Now that the excitement of seeing Milton was over, she felt dull and tired.

Nothing that Nina could do or say would change things. Tomorrow Milton would be on his way to Paris. Star wished that she might escape, too. It would help to get on a ship or a train and travel far away.

But there was no such solution for her. She must stay and continue with her work. Typing Nina's stories always ended happily. So different from real life, where your difficulties went on and on. You didn't fall in love and live happily ever after. You fell in love and suffered.

Oh, well, it was all over now. Nothing more to expect, ever. When Milton returned from Paris with his wife they might drop in sometimes to see Nina. He might even come there alone, but it would never again mean anything to Nina's secretary. She would greet him pleasantly and pass the cocktails; if Jennifer were with him, she would have to endure the amused triumph of Jennifer's eyes, but Milton wouldn't dare to look at her.

Star went to the window and stared down the street, but there was no sign of Nina's car. Suddenly she felt that she could bear it no longer. She couldn't sit there waiting for Nina to return. Putting on a coat she entered the kitchen.

"I don't want any dinner, Mrs. Epperson. Please tell Mrs. Lambert that I have gone for a walk."

The housekeeper surveyed her disapprovingly.

"You're getting almost as bad as she is. I never saw so much temper in my life. You need your dinner, Miss Bright. You're getting thinner every day. You'd better take care of yourself."

"I'm not hungry," Star said, anxious to escape. "But if I am later, I'll fix myself a sandwich."

Mrs. Epperson sniffed and retorted something Star did not wait to hear. She walked along the dark street aimlessly. It was late in October and a touch of frost was in the air. Most of the leaves had fallen, leaving the bare beauty of naked branches outlined against the sky.

By the time Milton came back from Paris it would be too late to take up his boat. The adventures would be deserted just as Star had been.

A desire to see the boat again made her turn in that direction. It was a distance of several miles but in her present mood she could walk it easily. She told herself there would be a melancholy satisfaction in watching the little craft rock in her berth. Milton never went there on week nights so she would be unobserved.

Absorbed in her thoughts, Star walked rapidly. It seemed only a short time before she reached the yacht harbor and passed down the tethered line. When she reached The Adventurers she paused. It was dark and empty. Tugging at the restraining ropes as if impatient to get away.

"Dear little boat! How happy the three of them had been together. Just like a family, because the cruiser seemed like a person, too.

There was a lump in Star's throat as she remembered how Milton had said that his wife had never seen it. The Adventurers and her memories belonged to Star. It was the only thing unmarred by Jennifer's touch and Star told herself she would have been willing to give up everything else. Jennifer could have had his name and bank accounts—all those things which meant so much to her—if only Star could have had this boat and Milton. If they could have gone abroad and sailed away.

A car was coming. She'd better get. A deserted yacht harbor was no place for a girl to be alone at night.

"Good-bye!" she whispered and started back, but as she walked, the lights of the approaching car were turned full upon her, blinding her. Then she heard Milton's voice.

"Why, Star, what are you doing down here?"

Confused and angry at herself, she cried, "Does it matter?"

"Of course it matters," he replied, parking his car. But she had walked on so that he had to run to catch up with her.

"Where are you going now?" he demanded.

"Home. Let me alone, Milton. Please. I didn't come down here to see you."

"Well, I didn't expect to see you, either," he admitted. "I told Nina I wanted to be alone. To think things over."

"I haven't seen Nina," she confessed, but something in his voice made her tremble. "I left before she came home."

He took her arm and led her back toward his boat.

"Now that you're here, you don't think I'm going to let you go?"

Star did not speak until they were inside the lighted cabin, then she said, "I don't know what Nina has said to you, but whatever it is I had nothing to do with it."

His face was grimmer than she had ever seen it, but his tone was gentle.

"Don't you think I know that? You haven't any idea, have you?"

Star shook her head, leaning against a table for support.

"Sit down," Milton suggested. "It isn't easy—what I am going to say. I wanted to think this over because it was such a shock."

He fumbled in a drawer for his pipe and as he filled it she saw that his hands, too, were shaking.

"Isn't it strange," he asked bitterly, "how every one else in the world can know things except the one most concerned? I've seen it happen so many times, but I never expected it to happen to me."

She waited breathlessly, afraid to guess what he was trying to say.

"Nina tells me that my wife has been traveling all over Europe with a wealthy man who owns a racing stable. She has been staying at the same hotels with him, posing as his wife. Registered under his name."

His eyes, shamed and angry, met hers but she did not dare comfort him.

"Nina would never have told me if she hadn't overheard our conversation this afternoon. It does something to me I can't explain. That's why I wanted to be alone."

He added: "I suspected that Jennifer didn't love me but I trusted her. What a fool you must think me."

"Nina and Bob just happened to run into Jennifer and this man with whom she has been traveling abroad," Milton continued. "Their testimony would be sufficient evidence for a divorce but I don't want private affairs blasted all over the front page. It will be better for Jennifer to get it."

"Suppose she refuses?" Star asked, remembering Jennifer's threat.

"She won't have any choice about it. I've already cabled her that I'm coming to Paris—I wish I never had to see her again."

"Must you go?"

"It takes so long to write letters back and forth and it isn't the kind of thing we can discuss by cabling."

"I'm afraid of Mrs. Wood," Star admitted. "If she doesn't want a divorce, she may find some way to prevent it even yet."

"She can't," he said grimly. "I don't think she'll try. After all, she knows that Nina and Bob saw her. She probably thinks that's the reason I'm sailing."

It was still very complicated, Star decided, but so long as he loved her, so long as there was any hope at all she could be patient.

"We'd better go home," she suggested. "Mrs. Lambert will be worried about me as I told Mrs. Epperson I was just going for a walk."

Milton rose and took her hands. "You'll wait for me, darling?"

"Give me a chance to straighten things out in a civilized way!"

"You know I will."

"I still can't believe that you are really in love with a man like me," he confessed. "You are so young and lovely. I am so much older and so disillusioned."

"You're hurt," she said gently. "But at heart you will always be an idealist. In some ways I am older even than you. You see I've never had any one to believe in except myself. I haven't any illusions."

"I'll make it up to you, Star. We'll have plenty together."

"We'll probably have plenty of adjustments to make," she reminded him. "But nothing can ever alter the fact that we love each other."

"Where are you going now?" he asked.

"Nothing," he answered. "He did not go in when they reached Nina's. Star ran upstairs, calling out, 'Mrs. Lambert, where are you?'"

Nina answered from the writing room. She looked as if she had been crying.

"Well, where have you been?" she began, but Star did not give her time to say more. Putting her arms about Nina's neck, she cried, "You, darling! How can I ever thank you?"

The writer said dryly, "Obviously you've seen Milton—but where?"

"At his boat in the yacht harbor," the girl answered. "Oh, Mrs. Lambert, I am so happy! I think you are the most wonderful person in the world!"

"Sit down and tell me about it," Nina answered. "Here I thought I would have something to tell you and Milton doesn't even let me do that."

Star was too excited to be quiet. She paced the floor as she explained how she had gone to say farewell to the boat on which they had spent so many happy hours. Adding that it was in the yacht harbor where Milton discovered her after she had left Nina.

Nina sighed. "You didn't tell me that before. But yes, it would be like that."

Star imagined that Nina was blaming herself for the fact that Milton had fallen in love with her secretary, but Star knew it couldn't have happened otherwise. All her life had led up to this point.

It was late when the two women said good night and later still before Star slept, but she was awakened early in the morning by Mrs. Epperson knocking at her door.

"Telephone for you, Miss Bright. It's Mr. Wood, and he says it's important."

Star did not wait for a dressing gown. Thrusting her feet into the mules beneath her bed, she ran downstairs. What had happened now? Milton would never have awakened her without a good reason. She prayed frantically, "Oh, God, please don't let anything go wrong."

STRANGE—Oddities about leap year... an interview with the Turner sisters, who make a business of serving court summonses...

and the saga of "Black Bart," rhyming bandit of the old west, who mocked his victims with stinging verses, will be the highlights of the Strange As It Seems program during its broadcast to be heard over WGST at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

A notorious stage coach robber in California during the 1870's, "Black Bart" held up twenty-eight coaches without having to fire a shot. Frantic posses had no evidence on which to work except the verses with which he commemorated each crime—until he carelessly dropped a derby hat, a handkerchief and a detachable cuff from his shirt.

MUSICAL—Ray Perkins, veteran radio comedian and pianist, will be heard in a new role, that of a serious composer, during the Musical Americana program over WAGA at 7 o'clock tonight when he will be soloist with the Radio Orchestra—100 Men of Melody—conducted by Raymond Paige, in his own unpublished composition, "Waltz for Listeners."

This week's guest soloist will be Kenneth Carpenter, 21-year-old saxophonist of Drake University's music school, one of a series of young musicians recruited each week from leading colleges and conservatories to prove that America is rich in native musical talent.

The program includes: "Serenade" by Herbert.

"In an Old Dutch Garden" by Gross.

"Handy in Blue" by Gershwin.

GOOD NEWS—Preparations for taking over the reins of regular master of ceremonies on the new star-studded half-hour edition of Good News of 1940, Dick Powell will make a guest appearance on the last full-hour program of the series during its broadcast to be heard over WSB at 8 o'clock tonight. Mary Martin, popular young songstress, will join Powell in the first of the new series next Thursday.

On this last full-hour program, Edward Arnold, master of ceremonies, will present special "Leap Year Day" features with Connie Boswell, Fanny Brice and Hanley Stafford, and Meredith Willson's Orchestra.

The program includes: "Woodpecker Song."

"All the Things You Are."

"Darn That Dream."

"Scatterbrain."

"June Moon."

When the Waters Went Wild

CHURNING Waters buffeted a barn in California when this air view was taken yesterday. Rivers were continuing to rise as levees were strengthened and precaution urged. (Story on Page 13)

BACK Ruth Chatterton returned to Broadway after a long absence. She'd been making films in Hollywood. Here she is in her dressing room, all set to read that stack of congratulatory messages.

RELAXING "Between Classes" is the name of this painting by Lamar Dodd, artist-in-residence at the University of Georgia, one of three now on exhibition in a one-man show at a New York gallery. Here a group of students lounge in the sunshine, under big trees on the campus. (Story on Page 13)

ATHENS This is another work by Dodd. It is a view of the "Classic City" across the railroad tracks.

SAID "NO" Kitty Sweigel, of New York, unpacks her trunks after a trip to Palestine to marry a bus driver. But she changed her mind about the wedding—because she preferred the Bronx.

MAROONED Bossy is in a tight spot here. Northern California floods isolated a great deal of livestock. This airview shows cattle stranded on an island near Marysville, gazing mournfully at the acres of water which surround them. The territory where this picture was taken yesterday was one of the hardest hit by the floods. Residents in the area prepared for more trouble as waters kept moving. (Story on Page 13)

LAZY The Artist Dodd named this picture "Sp Fever." It depicts a Negro caddy—in the of that easy-going feeling associated with the tra-season. Note the languid grace of the figure.

HAPPY BIRTHDAY! Today is February 29, which rolls around only once every four years. So for these Atlanta youngsters, it's a mighty big day. The Leap Year babies certainly are a fine crop, aren't they? Young Mr. Sullivan, left, is only four years old. Young Miss Moodie, second from left, is eight. Smiling young Miss Jackson, third from left, is 12 years old.

TO YOU! Marking second birthdays on this Leap Year day are those eight-year-olds, Arben Moreland, and cute little Lois Butler McMillan. Lois plans a cake with two candles, but anticipates lots of gifts. Barbara Broadwell is another celebrator who hasn't enjoyed a birthday before either. She's four years old. Bob Crowe also grins. He's another four-year-old pleased at today's prospect. (Story on Page 20)

CONCERT SINGER IS FOUND HANGED

Nina Palina's Body Discovered Dangling in Noose of Scarves.

NEW YORK, Feb. 28.—(AP)—Nina Palina, famed in the Baltic countries as a singer of songs the street urchins sing, was found dead today, dangling in a noose of brilliant scarves—red and green, yellow and blue—near her home. Neighbors told police the 39-year-old Russian concert singer had been unable to obtain engagements, was fearful of the future and longed for her homeland. They found her in a little one-room apartment, where she lived with her husband, Osep Tal, and their eight-year-old son, Ilja. Scarcely more than a month ago the family left their pretentious home in Riga, Latvia, where the singer had a coterie of servants and a livered chauffeur.

Constitution Still Wins Praise For Articles Giving Relief Data

Writers Cite Newspaper's Public Service, Courage, Clear Explanations.

More praise for Constitution news stories and editorials dealing with the Fulton county relief problem was given yesterday in communications from leading citizens. The messages referred to articles by Betty Mathis, Harold Martin and Willard Cope, of The Constitution staff.

Excerpts from the letters follow: "Miss Edith Campbell, attorney—The articles appearing in The Constitution present a fine human and economic analysis. Congratulations upon the splendid service your paper is rendering in educating the people, and may it be a continued story!"

Robert J. Sims — "Congratulations to The Constitution. It seems to me the best way to insure the future for our children is to feed and clothe those in need now, and not leave the increased burden for our children in later years. This is a real investment in human beings. My one suggestion is that The Constitution keep up the good work."

Mrs. William T. Gayle Jr., 3932 Peachtree road—"Your paper is doing one of the finest pieces of work ever done in this city. If another one-mill tax will give the sick and starving enough to live on, don't you think it is our Christian duty to levy it, and to pay it cheerfully?"

Acute Aspects Seen.

Francis C. Dyer, 48 West Brookhaven drive—"Your paper has done a courageous job. For the first time, the public sees the situation in its acute aspects."

RATE CUT SOUGHT ON PAY INSURANCE

Industrial Board Seeks Cheaper Schedules for Such Policies.

The state industrial board announced yesterday that it has recommended to Comptroller General William B. Harrison an overall reduction of 10.3-4 per cent in the rates on workmen's compensation insurance within the state.

The board said the rate slash would net a saving of $226,000 a year to employers carrying workmen's compensation insurance and that the reduction is in addition to the 9.1-5 per cent cut put into effect last year which netted savings to policy holders of approximately $193,200.

Early Answer Expected. Comptroller General Harrison, who is the state's ex-officio insurance commissioner, said he expected to pass on the new rate schedules today or tomorrow. Harrison must approve all insurance rates fixed by the state, but in past years he usually has concurred in the rates fixed by the industrial board for compensation insurance.

The industrial board is composed of Chairman Hal M. Stanley and Directors Arlie D. Tucker and Harry Monroe.

A. J. Hartley, secretary to the industrial board, said the new schedule of rates would become effective March 31, if approved by Harrison.

$419,000 Saving. "The new schedule will mean a saving to policyholders of $419,000 for this year compared to what they were paying when the present board took office," Hartley said. The total savings for the two-year period will be around $612,000.

The industrial board simultaneously announced that advantages of a merit rating, heretofore allowed only to employers paying annual premiums of $500 a year, would be extended to employers paying $300 a year or more. This change also must be approved by Comptroller General Harrison before it becomes effective.
